LOS ANGELES FEELS TWO EARTH SHOCKS

Distinct Movements Appear in Business Buildings of Downtown Section

LOS ANGELES Calif July 8—Two shocks believed to have been earthquakes were felt in Los Angeles at 8 44 o'clock this morning

The shocks were felt in business buildings in the downtown section There appeared to be two distinct movements one immediately following the other The force of the movement appeared to be directly north and south

The disturbances were characterized as earth shocks by the United States Weather bureau

The shocks occasioned some excitement in large office buildings but the excitement quickly calmed

The weather was cloudy with a high fog This was not what has become known as possible earthquake weather

At Inglewood Calif where heavy earth shocks were felt approximately four years ago done heavy damage and resulting in the death of several persons appeared to be the most heavily disturbed section of the tremblors today People ran from their houses fearing a repetition of the previous shocks

The shock was felt at San Pedro 25 miles from Los Angeles harbor

Officials of the Pacific States Telephone and Telegraph Co said the shocks were not felt in Pasadena, Santa Barbara nor El Centro indicating that the tremblors were of a local nature and confined to the section in and around Los Angeles

Funeral services were held at 2 30 o'clock this afternoon at Marlborough church followed by interment in the church cemetery

CITY BUDGET SHOWS BUT SLIGHT CHANGE

New Fund for Airport Only Important Addition Likely for 1930

Departments of the city of Marion will function during 1930 on virtually the same budgets they were allowed for this year city officials indicated today after a partial completion of the next year budget by the finance committee of city council

Creation of a new fund for maintenance of the municipal airport is probably the only change in next years figures officials say

The tentative budget will not be submitted to city council tonight as it must be advertised for a public hearing before necessary resolutions can be passed The public hearing will probably be advertised for Monday July 22 the date of the next regular meeting of council city officials say

No radical changes were made from last years budget Requisitions from the different department heads called for considerably larger amounts than were sanctioned by the committee and consequently many modifications were necessary

POSTPONE HEARING OF MOTORCYCLIST

Injury Delays Smith's Trial, Funeral of Crash Victim Held Today

William Smith 18 of 144 Scioto st, will not be tried in municipal court on a charge of reckless operation of a motorcycle until a broken leg sustained in an accident Saturday which claimed the life of Albert Davis 15 of 365 Fies as has healed city officials said today

Officials were silent on the reported possibilities of other charges being filed against Smith following the mishap

Smith entered a plea of not guilty to the reckless driving charge when arraigned in the municipal court late Friday the day preceding the accident in which Davis was killed His trial was set for Tuesday and he was released on $50 bond Following his release, he, accompanied by young Davis, drove his motorcycle into a moving freight train at the Pennsylvania tracks near the north corporation line on Main st Saturday morning about 10 30 o'clock

Funeral services were held today at 1 o'clock for Albert Theodore Davis, who was killed in the Saturday accident The Rev C M Brown, pastor of the First Pilgrim Holiness church, was in charge of the services at the home, 357 Fies av and at the Delaware cemetery where the boy was buried

OLD ORCHARD BEACH Me July 8—Unhaunted by a series of accidents and delays two courageous American airmen today started on a non stop 1500 mile flight to Rome

Pilot Roger Q Williams and Capt Lewis A Yancey navigator swept off the beach here today at 8 15 p m eastern daylight time] in the Bellanca monoplane Pathfinder bound to the Eternal City on the most ambitious transatlantic air voyage in the history of aviation

It was the longest attempted transatlantic hop on record The American plane planned to be in Rome within 50 hours

20000 Cheer Getaway

Balked for nearly two hours today by thick banks of fog the Pathfinder finally ran down the beach to the cheers and shouts of 20000 persons and after reaching a point approximately one mile and a quarter from the starting point swept off the silvery sand

Climbing to 250 feet the Pathfinder roared over the promenade pier which was crowded with spectators

The Pathfinder continued in a southerly direction for several minutes and then made a wide circle

The fog obscured the vision of those on the beach but they could make out in the mist an outline of the Rome bound craft as she swung eastward and began to gain altitude

Two hours after the plane started it was learned that the flight might be only a test 50 gallons of gasoline in containers having been left behind But as the hours passed and there was no word of the Pathfinder's return it was presumed that the check of gasoline consumption was showing that the 140 to 500 gallons aboard would be sufficient to carry the plane to the Liberal Cafe for across the sea

ASK IMPROVEMENT OF WHITE OAKS RD.

More Than Two-Thirds of Land Owners Sign Petition Filed with Board

A petition for improving White Oaks rd south of Marion has been presented to the board of county commissioners by interested property owners along the right-of way The petition is said to be signed by more than two thirds of the land owners

If the petition is approved by the county commissioners the road will be constructed of water bound macadam Assessments are to be made on the half mile assessing plan

Crossing Fight Ended

The petition for the improvement of the road follows shortly after the installation of a crossing over the Columbus Delaware & Marion Electric Co interurban tracks at the southern extremity of the road. The crossing was put in several weeks ago by County Surveyor Cecil R Learens after it had been held up in the county, district and state courts for nearly nine years by the Electric company

Opening of the road is expected to open up a large section southwest of the city for residence sections The Oak Knowles Realty Co headed by E H Cowan has already laid out a subdivision there The promotion of the subdivision has heretofore been held up by the road litigation

New Entrance to City

Opening of the White Oaks rd. gives another entrance to the city from the south It is expected to be of great benefit to stock raisers in the southern section of the county, as it eliminates four steam railway crossings enroute to the Marion Union stockyards.

The road is an extension of Davids st. It intersects with the Marion-Prospect rd a short distance south of the Hocking Valley crossing.

MRS. AMANDA PORTER IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Passes Away at Salter Home on Marion Av.; Funeral To Be Wednesday

Mrs. Amanda Louise Porter, 76, died last night at 9 30 o clock at the home of her daughter Mrs. E. J. Salter, 285 Marion av. Mrs Porter died of complications, following a three days' illness. For some time she had not visited away from the Salter home because of failing eyesight, but recently she was a guest at the home of her daughter, Mrs B. C. Decker, of Akron.

Mrs Porter was born Aug 28, 1853, in Meigs county, O., to Peter and Susan Bower Showers, both of Virginia. She was the last of their nine children. In 1876 she was married in this city to John Porter, and they immediately made their home in Green Camp, where they lived until his death 29 years ago. They were the parents of six children. Two sons died in infancy.

The surviving children are Mrs Salter, at whose home she died; Mrs. B. O. Decker, Akron, Mrs. W. R. Crissinger, 316 Canby ct. and C. J. Porter, 594 Congress st. Four grand children are living.

When Mrs. Porter came to this city from Green Camp after the death of Mr. Porter, she established her own home and lived there for 7 years. She has lived at the Salter home for the past 16 years.

Mrs. Porter was a member of Trinity Baptist church and of Marion chapter, American Insurance Union.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Salter home, with the Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor of Trinity Baptist church in charge. Interment will be made in the Green Camp cemetery.

STATE DRY AGENT SHOT DURING RAID

L. C. Flemming Near Death at Toledo; Police Seek Assailant

TOLEDO, July 8—While L. C. Flemming, state prohibition agent, lay near death in a hospital here today from bullet wounds which he suffered during an early morning raid yesterday, police were conducting an exhaustive search for his assailant.

Flemming was shot through the neck and left lung during a raid on an alleged bootlegging establishment. Police say his assailant was a well-known negro bootlegger.

After wounding Flemming the colored liquor peddler made good an escape in a small automobile.

PLANE IS DELAYED BY STORMS, WEATHER

"Untin" Bowler, Chicago-Berlin Craft, Believed Still at Great Whale

CHICAGO, Jul. 8—Storms and poor flying weather were believed here today to have thwarted efforts of the Chicago to Berlin plane, "Untin' Bowler to hop off from Great Whale river to Port Burwell, Cape Chidley.

Conflicting reports have been received here concerning the plane's progress. One report indicated the plane had hopped off. This originated from the constant radio signals sent out by the Bowler while it was in motion, and recei ed at a local station.

Another report from Mount Evans, Greenland, via radio stated the plane still was moored in the river near the lower tip of Hudson's Bay.

No direct word from the pilots, Parker Cramer and Robert Gast, had been received here today.

Radio apparatus has been adapted by a European scientist to record photographically messages sent to the brain by nerves.

B. & O. Installs Club Smokers for Women

WASHINGTON — American women battering constantly on the stronghold of Masculine Privilege have successfully stormed another important fortification

Though women for several years have invaded the railroad club cars thereby nullifying the male right of free speech until now they have been officially classed as intruders who generally smoked their smoke and hurried away

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad however has tactfully admitted feminine rapture of this stronghold by establishing on its Washington New York line a single-standard car divided into a smoking room for both sexes and a living room both fitted with comfortable chairs and settees library table and writing desk

Famous Love Stories Of the Operas

BY ELSIE CLEVAN

Verdi's Beautiful "La Traviata" Tells of the Tragic Romance of Violetta, Beautiful Parisienne

THE story of 'La Traviata,' an opera in three acts with a score by Giuseppe Verdi is founded on Dumas Lady of the Camellias and was adapted by Piave

Its setting is in Paris in the time of Louis XIV. The first act is the salon of Violetta a coquettish courtesan Her drawing room is the meeting place of the gayer element of Parisian society As the opera opens a lively entertainment is taking place Among those present is Alfred Germont who has just been presented to Violetta and has immediately succumbed to her charms As the dancing begins Violetta is attacked with a sudden faintness an ominous forewarning of consumption She begs the guests to proceed and more concernal for their own amusement than for the welfare of Violetta they do—all except Alfred He is upset and very solicitously watched by Violetta's illness She is more than touched by this anxiety for her and in a beautiful duet Un dì felice (Rapturous Moment) their mutual love is told

The next act moves to the interior of a country house near Paris Sweet has Violetta found this new love that she has given herself up to it entirely and gone away from the gay life in Paris with Alfred All is going serenely until Alfred learns from her maid that Violetta has been obliged to sell her jewels to maintain the little menage When Violetta returns from the city where she has gone to raise funds she is surprised to find Alfred absent And more than surprised when she is unexpectedly visited by Giorgio Germont Alfred's father The older man has been greatly distressed at what he conceives to be a boyish entanglement and he is none too polite in his greetings But when he learns from Violetta that far from being dependent on Alfred she has sold her property to support him he is both charmed and ashamed However he still pleads with her to give him up His daughter is to marry a young noble and he fears that if Alfred's mesalliance is made known it will interfere with the marriage Violetta at first refuses to give up Alfred but finally realizing that if she does it will be to his advantage she yields Alfred returns to find a farewell note from Violetta His despair is dreadful and he is not to be aroused even when his father enters and valuly strives to console him

The next scene is in a richly furnished salon in a palace belonging to Flora a friend of Violetta's Violetta has gone to Paris and attached herself to an old admirer Baron Douphol She is expected at Flora's party To this party comes Alfred He begins to gamble, winning heavily When Violetta arrives with the Baron she is horrified to see Alfred but he pretends not to notice her and challenges the Baron to a game Supper is announced and all leave the room Violetta returns followed by Alfred She implores him to leave the house now horrified at the prospect of a duel between the two men Alfred refuses bitterly and charges her with falseness asking her if she loves the baron Remembering her promise to his father she is compelled to answer yes Angered beyond control Alfred calls the guests from supper and openly and publicly denounces and insults Violetta At this moment Germont enters to be horrified at his son's treatment of the woman whose self-sacrifice has himself brought about

In the final act we find Violetta very ill She is reading a note from Germont in which he tells her that he has enlightened Alfred who now knows about her sacrifice and that Alfred will return to her for pardon And not much later Alfred arrives in repentance He is speedily forgiven but the shock of their meeting is too much for Violetta's strength The end is very near, and she collapses into her lover's arms.

Dan Sweeney Goes on Erie Pension List As Reward for Fifty Years' Service

Passenger Conductor Who Began as Brakeman at Galion in 1879 Has Outstanding Record; in Charge of Train That Bore Harding's Body to Marion

After 50 years of continuous and faithful service, Dan Sweeney, veteran Marion railroader, has been retired and placed on the special allowance list by the Erie. Mr. Sweeney, who will be 74 years of age next September, resides at 315 South Prospect st., with a daughter.

Dan, as he is known to virtually every Erie employe on the Kent division, has been in ill health since the first of the year, when he suffered a stroke. He was notified of his being placed on the pension list by Trainmaster C. P. Shaughnessy as he was resting at his home Friday morning.

He doesn't know exactly how to take it yet but says he expects he will become accustomed to missing the roar of the engines before many more months roll by.

Started in Galion

Mr. Sweeney started with the Erie on Feb. 8, 1879 at Galion as a brakeman when he was 24 years of age. He continued in the company's employe at Galion, which was then the terminal, until the terminal was moved to Marion in 1911.

In that year he moved to this city, where he has since resided. Following a period of service as a brakeman he became a freight conductor, after which he was promoted to passenger conductor, the position he held at the time of his retirement.

Mr. Sweeney's run was from Marion to Salamanca, New York from 1912 until 1925, in which year he was transferred to the Marion-Dayton run. He was just getting ready to make his regular run to Dayton on December 28 when he was stricken.

When he started to work for the Erie it was known as the Atlantic and Great Western and in 1881 became known as the N. Y. P. & O. The Erie purchased the road shortly after that time and made it a standard gauge. From 1879 to the time the Erie purchased the road it had been a six-foot broad gauge.

DAN SWEENEY

Mr. Sweeney has always been on the Kent division and most of the time on what was known as division No. 2. When asked about the change in the freight and passenger trains from 1879 until the present time he said it would be impossible to even sketch their development.

Trains Were Small

He continued by saying that in his opinion he doubted if an engine that was used around 1880 would be able to pull one of the modern engines, let alone an entire train. A train in those days consisted of from 14 to 16 cars, and that was a big load to carry.

During his 50-year period of service in this division, Mr. Sweeney has worked under 12 different superintendents and has watched one of them, Robert E. Woodruff, advance through the ranks to his present position of vice president of the entire system. Mr. Sweeney also remembers without any difficulty when John M. Condon, former Galion and Marion man, who is now assistant vice president of the Erie, started as a railroader.

The Erie veteran counts as one of the experiences he values the most during his service of passenger conductor, the time he was introduced to former President Calvin Coolidge and his wife as they were coming to Marion from Washington to attend the funeral services of President Harding.

Complimented by Coolidge

Mr. Sweeney had picked up the Coolidge train as it entered his division at Akron. About half way to Marion, Mr. Coolidge asked for the conductor and when Sweeney entered the car, Mr. Coolidge stood up and shook hands with him, complimenting him on the fine service that the Erie was giving their party enroute.

Mr. Sweeney was a little "flustrated," as he said yesterday, but managed to thank the former chief executive for the compliment.

Mr. Sweeney also had the honor of being the conductor on the train that bore the body of President Harding to its final resting place here. These two trains he remembers above all the others of his 50-year period of service.

Although he is still rather weak from the results of his sick spell, Mr. Sweeney is able to be up and around and as he quaintly put it, "I'll be around to bother the folks quite a few years yet."

MT. VICTORY GROUP PRESENTS PROGRAM

Missionary Society Members Are Guests of Mrs. Horace Porter

MT. VICTORY, July 8—The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church met at the home of Mrs. Horace Porter Friday afternoon with 10 in attendance. After opening song and devotional service conducted by Mrs. Clyde McCall, a program was given. "Three Ways to Happiness" was read by Mrs. R. N. Cox, and Mrs. R. B. Cogbill read a leaflet, "White Gifts for the King." Mrs. William McKim discussed the theme, "Two Types of Families," and a reading was given by Mrs. Joe Ansley, "Meeting the Samaritan Women." The study book review, "Friend as a Teacher," was in charge of Mrs. James Warner. Mrs. M. W. Cronley had the mystery box exercises.

The society planned to hold an ice-cream and cake social on the M. E. church lawn Saturday, July 13, and a covered dish picnic Friday, Aug. 2. The meeting closed with a sacred musical number, "I Walked in the Garden," and prayer by the Rev. William George. Guests of the society were Mrs. Frank Cronley, Mrs. Mack Simpson, Miss Ruth Ella Ansley, Rev. William George and daughter, Alice, and son, Donald. The hostess served refreshments assisted by Mrs. Mack Simpson.

Chicken, Coffee, Water, Etc., on Plane; Wreath Is Carried

OLD ORCHARD BEACH Maine July 8—Here's a bit of the provisions on board the America to Rome angulane Pathfinder

Eight oranges four apples one ...as chicken three thermos bottles o coffee boiling one quart each three cans of water, a half dozen chocolate bars and one quart of whisky destined for use in case of emergency

Newspaper friends of Paul Parmelee New York newspaper editor who lost his life in the flight to Rome of the orphaned Old Glory put aboard a handsome wreath which Williams and Lancer promised to drop over the ocean grave of Old Glory

A four leaf clover handed him by the chef of the Peterboro N J airfield restaurant was carried by Pilot Roger Q Williams in his pocket aboard the America to Rome angulane Pathfinder

That's for luck said the chef when the Pathfinder left Peterboro for Old Orchard on June 27

'I shall need a lot more luck than I have replied Williams with a grin

THE Bellanca monoplane Pathfinder Rome bound in a sister ship of the Green Flash which crashed up on the takeoff to be Eternal City on June 13 here

The Pathfinder with light green fuselage and silver wings was purchased from Mrs Emmes W Stillman of New York The Pathfinder was formerly known as the North Star

The trim Atlantic monoplane is powered with a nine cylinder single 200 horse power Wright whirlwind motor It has a specially designed metal propeller which it was expected would give increased speed and result in a lower consumption of gasoline

Into Bright Sunshine

Radiograms from the Leaving stated three miles off the coast the Pathfinder went into a short circle to gain altitude

Five miles out she had climbed 500 feet above the oil of the Atlantic and out of the fog and into bright sunshine

The perfect takeoff today was made after container of 40 gallons of gasoline were removed from the fuselage This gave the Pathfinder slightly less than 400 gallons of gasoline for the 4500 mile hop but her specially built propeller was expected to more than make up the deficiency in gasoline

Today's flight to Rome was the culmination of a chain of accidents and delays Not in the least discouraged by these accidents and delays only criticism heaped upon the heads of the American airmen were quietly and confidently about the task they had undertaken what they hoped would be the first successful flight in history

Many Delays

The accidents and delays included a big wash out on Roosevelt Field N Y The one included a big wash out early in June because of adverse weather conditions and found when they first attempted to take off in the with the Yellow Bird on the up of the Williams and Yancey plane Green Flash on June 15 when the tricycle French undercarriage started to collapse as successful takeoff appeared imminent Earlier unsuccessful attempts for the purchase of the Pathfinder famous the North Star named by Mr Lane A Stillman of New York a long wait with the Pathfinder at Scituate Airport because of unfavorable weather conditions over the Atlantic a wind forecast which the pilots of the Pathfinder refused to accept as safe for a takeoff

He'll never ... a bluff was the word that was passed around the hotel Lindbergh in the first of the great ocean hops undertaken by the residents and debris Williams and Yancey today proved that they meant business from the start

His Been Ambitious

Both the commercially ambitious Williams and Yancey for the purpose of the proposed flight to Rome in the monoplane Richard Satelli was the other pilot The former took off from the bucket and after ... as far as Cape Elizabeth and Long unable to gain altitude dumped his fuel and returned to Old Orchard After a series of test flights it was decided that the Bellanca with a new motor It was flown to New York but never returned to Old Orchard Yancey as a master navigator on the high ... Lieutenant in the United States navy and the author of several books on navigational navigation He has been a seaman before the mast He was navigator aboard an airplane which participated in a transcontinental race from New York to California

A flight to Rome has been the ambition of the lives of both Williams and Yancey This ambition was shared by the wives of both men

Conditions Excellent

Flying conditions over the Atlantic were reported as excellent for the next 48 hours with the exception of the fog banks off the coast These banks of mist rose 500 feet or more from the sea level and extended from 600 to a thousand miles out The beach today had been levelled smooth and free from furrows by the tide The delay of nearly two hours in getting aloft by the Pathfinder was due wholly to the fog and Williams and Yancey took off with a scant 17 minutes from deadline of the incoming tide The tide was lifting rapidly and a long stretch of beach was needed for the takeoff

Mechanics were at work on the plane at dawn and had the Pathfinder on the beach and ready for a start at 7 a m The motor functioned perfectly

The flight thus far has cost Williams and Yancey or their financial backers $7000 for the Bellanca monoplane and $1400 additional for new instruments and repairs

Last minute inspection of the plane was by Ben Brauer of the Wright motors field service department and John McCormack mechanic Ben Zehorn another Wright mechanic, who groomed the Green Flash also came here Kenneth J Boedecker chief of the Wright service department, also inspected the Pathfinder

The Pathfinder was a duplicate of the Green Flash and proved air worthy in test flights made here

I am satisfied that our flight will be successful said Yancey

Speaker at Union Service Blames Commercialism for Sabbath Desecration

Situation in Pennsylvania Cited by Rev J F. Leist as Evidence of Value of Strict Sunday Law Enforcement, Meeting Held at Epworth Church

Respect for the Sabbath Day was the subject of the sermon delivered in Epworth M E church last night by the Rev J F Leist of Columbus executive secretary of the Latter Day Affiliate in the weekly union church services The auditorium of the church was well filled

A startling statement of the Rev Mr Leist was to the effect that the state of Pennsylvania has more Sabbath laws and stricter enforcement of them than any other state in the union and as a result there are three and a half times as many industrials in Sunday schools there as there are in Ohio in proportion to population

Blames Commercialism

The rising tide of commercialism is tending to choke off true spiritual life of the Sabbath day he declared

Observance of the Sabbath day was brought down to the present day from the days before the Old Testament was complete following through the prophets and showing how each one subjugated his people in the observance of the seventh day the Sabbath the Columbus man said

The Rev G A Whitlock pastor of Wesley M E church read the scripture lesson, the Rev Lawrence A Wood pastor of Trinity Baptist church led in prayer and the Rev H F Weckmueller pastor of First Reformed church talked in regard to the chautauqua July 21-27 and the next Sunday's meeting.

Preceding the sermon the double quartet of Epworth assisted by Miss Marie Evangeline Lawrence organist presented a program of music The numbers were well sung and were appreciated by the audience The double quartet includes Mrs Florence Shaw Rutherford Mrs Allene Lawrence Dunlap Mrs Earl N Hale Miss Mary Heminger W W Koppe Rev H Reitano and A A Martin and Knox Dunlap

LAUNCH PROBE INTO SUNDAY SEA CRASH

Three-Fold Inquiry Opened; 249 Passengerss Saved by Masterly Seamanship

BOSTON July 8—A three fold investigation was launched today into the Sunday morning sea crash in a dense fog 75 miles off Boston Light between the coast guard boat Acushnet and the New South passenger liner Prince George when 249 passengers were saved by masterly seamanship on the part of both crews

One inquiry was ordered by the New England division headquarters of the coast guard service A second probe was launched by officials of the Eastern Steamship Lines operators of the Prince George and another general investigation was set in motion by the United States Steamship Inspection Service

President Eugene I O'Donnell of the steamship company raised the question of whether the coast guards boat was sounding her fog horn at the time of the collision The Prince George was blowing her siren he said was on her regular course and proceeding at a moderate rate of speed Coast guard officials were reticent in discussing the mooted points until the official probes are under way

The passengers of the liner who included 75 children were all their homes thanking their lucky stars that they had been snatched from death by brave seamanship aided by a calm sea

A wire from Charleston, Illinois, says that four inches of rain fell there during a recent thunderstorm. Rain nothing! You can't call it rain when water comes down in chunks?

A Norwegian has sailed from Boston for Havre in a sixteen-foot open boat equipped with a second-hand outboard motor. It's going to make a mighty small object for searching vessels to "pick up" out in the middle of the Atlantic.

A light automobile hit a train near Washington and in some way uncoupled the engine from its tender and yet was able to proceed under its own power. And yet we true aristocrats of the land are expected to withstand assaults like that!

The deaths in the United States resulting from the celebration of the Fourth are now placed at 168, seven being caused by fireworks, seventy by automobiles, seventy-one by drownings and eleven due to other causes. The Fourth seemingly is just about as deadly as of old, the chief difference being in the manner of the killings.

A hundred-mile-an-hour wind caused a death toll of twenty-five in Germany, Austria, Jugo-Slavia and Czecho-Slovakia, last week, to say nothing of many hundreds of people injured and great property damage. It will be a sorry day if such a wind is ever suffered in this country, where frame buildings are common. The death toll would mount to scores of thousands.

Word comes from New York City that John Pepper, who is none other than Joseph Pogany, Hungarian aide to the infamous Bela Kun, Ben Gitlow, Bertram D. Wolfe and other communists called from this country on to the soviet carpet in Moscow, are being "detained" in Russia. Here's our idea of another thing not worth worrying about. The United States would be to the good were they detained there forever.

The analyses of the brain, stomach, liver and kidneys of Wilmer Stultz, killed with two passengers in a fall spin last Monday, show not only that he had been drinking, but also that he was "very drunk," while the investigation inaugurated has disclosed that a pilot's helmet is an open sesame to all the speakeasies clustered around Roosevelt, Mitchell and Curtis flying fields. The deadly rum serpent is leaving its trail in the air as it has on land and sea.

A Splendid Achievement.

There is a very apparent trend on the part of the press to make much of the value of the 174-hour record-breaking airplane flight of Newcomb and Mitchell as a demonstration of the relative endurance powers of a high-class motor and those of man. As such, its value, to our way of thinking, was negligible for the reason that the fact that a motor has greater power for continuous performance than a human being had already been so conclusively shown as to leave no ground for question. As a matter of fact, it has been demonstrated that a motor has greater endurance than two men, competing against it alternatively, and last week's flight was but added evidence of a fact already recognized, as the motor went on without interruption, while Newcomb and Mitchell relieved each other and refreshed themselves by rest and sleep.

But there was one thing which the "City of Cleveland" flight did demonstrate; one thing which took it out of the mere stunt class and offered excuse for the drain on the energies of the two airmen. It did away with what was seemingly a rather general impression that such a flight was possible only to airplanes such as were powered similarly to that which made the endurance record against which the crew of the "City of Cleveland" contended. It established the fact that it was not necessary to operate a large plane equipped with two or three motors to make a flight of a week, but that such a flight could be made in a small plane equipped with a single motor.

It is said that so strong was the impression that long-endurance flights were possible only to planes of two or more motors, that the makers of one-motor planes were finding themselves handicapped in making sales; that the demand for big two-motor and three-motor planes was outstripping the call for small one-motor planes. Under these circumstances the "City of Cleveland" flight was staged to prove the contrary. As a demonstration of the falsity of the growing impression, the flight was a splendid achievement.

Extremes Always Dangerous.

There can be no question but what there has of late been a decided growth within the Christian church in the feeling that the church should keep out of politics. We get reflexes of this feeling from both pulpits and congregations. Two or three years ago ministers willing to express disapproval of incursions of the church into practical politics were as scarce as the proverbial teeth of the hen. Not so today. Scarcely a week passes now that we do not read how this ecclesiastic or that has made pronouncement against the church, as a church, muddling into what a local citizen once referred to as the "muddy pool of politics."

Recently word came out of Norfolk to the effect that a movement was under way among the members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South in Virginia and several neighboring states to rescue the church from the activities of preacher politicians, and the movement is said to have the support of several bishops of the church who are not in sympathy with the more or less recent activities of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of that organization.

Close on the heels of the Norfolk report came one from Cleveland, quoting pulpit utterances of the Rev. Francis J. Malzard, pastor of the Immanuel Presbyterian church, of the Forest City, in expression of his conviction that the church should never "muddle with the civil law" even though the law in question be the prohibition law, the Cleveland pastor taking the position that it is the province of the church to teach people to live in righteousness and to aid them in living righteously, but that law enforcement is properly the function of police and prosecuting officials.

It must not be assumed that this Presbyterian minister has a wet leaning, or that he is in any way in sympathy with the liquor people or the traffic which in one form or another they encourage. His utterances to his congregation made evident beyond the possibility of doubt that he is a champion of prohibition and prohibition enforcement. But he wants that enforcement committed to the hands where it legally belongs. He said, in part:

"As a matter of fact I do not believe the church should meddle with civil law.

"The church can not help being opposed to the liquor traffic. This traffic has flouted everything that is holy; it has corrupted young men and maidens and scoffed at every endeavor for moderation. Alcohol is bad for the human body; it causes untold human misery, and the church must seek its extirpation.

"To do this it will point out the evils of alcohol, it must teach the people the dangers of strong drink. It must urge upon the strong to help the weak. Voluntary abstinence is probably the only consistent position for a Christian.

"But the moment the civil law steps in, and forbids people the use of alcohol, that moment the matter ceases to be a Christian inhibition, but a legal prohibition. It is no longer a case of helping a brother, but of obeying the law of the land."

There will be a decided disagreement in many quarters with the position taken by this Cleveland minister. Not to anticipate disagreement would be contrary to reason, but the disagreement will be voiced chiefly by those who very largely are responsible for the situation against which he warns. On the other hand, there are many within the church who will feel that there is merit in what he has had to say; that the church has made a mistake by going actively into a field for which it was never designed, and that it has harmed itself by so doing.

When all is said, the prohibition question will very probably be brought to its final solution, not by the extreme drys or the extreme wets, but by the great middle-of-the-road element, which will be won to the support of prohibition through recognition of the economic, physical and moral evils of intemperance. Taking this for granted, it can hardly be good policy for either the drys or the wets to go to extremes. Such a course on their part can hardly do other than prejudice what they proclaim to be their cause.

Because one of his ancestors emigrated from Sudbury, in Suffolk, England, to America, Ambassador Dawes has been granted freedom of the borough by the Sudbury town council. Hot stuff! Now Mr. Dawes will be able to buy anything offered for sale in the borough at the regular prices exacted from tourists.

The attorney general of Wisconsin has ruled that drivers of motor vehicles can not be denied the operation of their cars for a year when arraigned under a city ordinance; that to make such a decree good the offending motorists must be arraigned under the state law. If the law of Ohio is similar to that of Wisconsin, it's up to prosecuting officers to govern themselves accordingly.

The colored firemen of the Vestris have been exonerated by the London board of trade for quitting their posts and seeking to save their lives, the opinion of the board being that they held fast much longer than men could have been expected to work under such conditions as obtained at the time of the horror. And thus another alibi of the owners is wiped away.

In reporting to the Southern Newspaper Publishers' association, Chairman John A. Park, of its board, referred to press agents, public relations men, information secretaries and others who get easy advertising pickings at the expense of the newspapers as the publicity "gate crashers." A splendid term for the lot of them, but no term however odius will deter them from fattening themselves at their trade so long as newspapers continue to give them, free of charge, what they could not buy and what the law will not permit newspapers to sell them for money.

Live Right and Fear Not Age.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

No one wants to be old. It isn't nice to be old. But the worst of it is, we just have to get old.

Suppose I had a sure process for keeping young. What would you give for the secret? If you are past sixty years you would give me half your fortune. I know a man who would give me a million dollars for every year I could add to his life.

It is an interesting fact that boys and girls are not excited over the idea of living to be a hundred. But after middle life it is a matter of great concern.

Of course we don't want to be old, but isn't it foolish to attempt to fool our acquaintances about it? I say attempt to fool them, because it is only an attempt and a useless one. We just can't fool them. Age will tell with most of us.

One way or another everybody knows the age of everybody else in the community. Gossip fixes the date anyhow, but the worst of it is the face is very likely to tell its own story. It is only an occasional person who escapes the verdict. A shrewd observer rarely misses in the estimate by more than two or three years. We can't escape the truth.

The trouble about the age business is a silly belief that nobody loves you if you are past forty. That is all nonsense.

We love children for their innocence. We love boys and girls in their teens for their sprightliness and vivacity. We love young people in their twenties for their ambitions and their self-consciousness.

It is not until thirty years is reached that life becomes really serious. From that birthday forward you feel you are "old." To everybody under thirty you are old. To everybody above thirty nobody is old till he really is old—eighty or more.

We never begin to tell stories about our age till we are past thirty. Since we can't hope to fool the younger folks, it will do us no good to yarn about it. The rest of the world won't care what the real age is, because it does not regard thirty-plus as really old.

The cold fact is, we are absolutely wasting our time and our reputation for veracity by all the yarn tales about youthfulness. We fool nobody.

By right living, fresh air, exercise, cheerful thoughts, kindly deeds and particularly by simple eating you can preserve your figure, your clearness of complexion and the avoidance of wrinkles. Then they will say to you: "She is every bit of forty-two, but isn't she a wonder? She doesn't look a day over thirty."

Let us not worry about age. We are as old as we feel and really no older. Let us govern our lives so that we can continue to be active and useful, no matter how many years we have acquired.

When I look at Senator Warren, one of the most active men in the senate and recall that he is past eighty-five, the fear of age leaves me. There is no good reason why good sense in the observance of the rules of living will not permit most of us to live to be really old.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

MRS. E. A. N. Q—What treatment do you advise for gall stones? Can they be dissolved? The X-ray picture revealed four and I have an attack about once every six months.

A—The treatment depends upon the severity of the attack. Careful dieting and general care will sometimes bring about relief, while in other cases more drastic measures are necessary. Follow your doctor's advice.

B. M. Q—What are the symptoms of low blood pressure?

A—Lowered vitality, lack of energy, headache, depressed spirits and coldness of hands and feet are among the common symptoms accompanying low blood pressure.

MRS. G. Q—How can I find the cause of infection if I am troubled with arthritis?

A—The teeth, tonsils, sinuses, glands, intestines and kidneys are all possible points of infection. Consult your family physician for a thorough examination.

HELEN D. Q—How can I bleach the hair on my arms?

A—Fresh peroxide of hydrogen frequently applied, will bleach the hair, thus making it less conspicuous and, it is contended by some, peroxide will retard the hair growth.

Editorial Opinion.

SMOKING UP.

The report of the internal revenue bureau that tax returns for the month of May, last, indicate the manufacture in this country of 11,000,000,000 cigarets inspires interesting statistical speculations.

Of course, no one has any conception of a million units of anything. They can be represented only by figures. And a billion is one thousand millions.

But the average smoker of cigarets knows that he pays fifteen cents more or less, for a package of twenty of the average sort. He may get them two packages for twenty-five cents, but on the other hand he may buy small packs at a higher price per cigaret and he may—many do—buy higher priced "smokes." For the purpose in hand, therefore, fifteen cents may be taken as a fair average, which makes the price to the consumer three-quarters of a cent a cigaret.

On this basis it requires but a simple calculation to reach the astounding conclusion that the cigaret bill of the nation—and the smokers of American cigarets in foreign lands—was $82,500,000 for the month of May, 1929, a fraction over sixty-eight cents for every man, woman and child in the country, whose monthly supply was a fraction more than ninety-one cigarets each.

Visualized in another way, which again is more a matter of mathematics than visual illustration, the 11,000,000,000 cigarets, if laid end to end, would stretch nineteen times around the earth at the equator, with a few thousand miles to spare.

Packed in cartons and crated, with scant allowances for waste of space, this supply would fill approximately 1,100 freight cars or, piled in a solid heap, would make a tower 100 by 100 feet and 230 feet high or fifty by fifty and 920 feet high.

The report also says that in point of cigaret production May, 1929, was a record-breaking month, but even a liberal discount of these figures indicates a cigaret consumption that will amaze, if it doesn't startle or shock the thoughtful reader. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

CRASHING THE PALACE GATES.

Mrs. Dawes, the wife of the ambassador to Great Britain, had no more than landed in England when she was required to present a batch of American women at court.

Sensible American officials feel that this usage is ridiculous and even humiliating with the United States government engaging in social practices which should be beneath its dignity. The state department has been involved in petty political debt-paying by a species of flunkyism. Self-respecting ambassadors detest it. General Dawes does not like it, but the usage has entrenched itself in the diplomatic requirements.

In effect and in seeming the American government requests the British government to be so good as to permit a certain number of American women to acquire the social distinction of presentation and the British government consents to the appearance of a restricted number of them. A favor is asked and conferred upon a recognized basis of inferiority and superiority. The American woman applicant is accepted as inferior to the English woman, but on presentation she becomes superior to her own countrywomen.

The anxiety to attain this state of grace discredits the essentials of American life. It is an assertion that the lack of monarchial institutions is a misfortune and that it indicates inferiority. The diplomatic appearance of the United States government in the exhibits of such a theory is of a necessity ridiculous. No American official should have anything to do with it. The United States government should not make any such requests of the British government. The women who want to be presented at court should be placed entirely on their own resources and enterprise. They should be obliged to rely altogether on their own ingenuity for crashing the gates. If they got in there would be no governmental responsibility for them.

Ambassadors should be relieved entirely of the chore which belittles not only their office, but their government.—Chicago Tribune.

The Acid Test.

We have yet to see any manufacturing company rash enough to claim that its brand of pipe will withstand having home brew poured through the plumbing.—Nashville Banner.

It Will Help Some.

The drys are claiming that prohibition has saved the country $72,000,000. Fine! That's nearly enough to keep the enforcement agents in ammunition.—Macon Telegraph.

After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven, hallowed by Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: for Thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen.—Matthew 6:9, 10, 11, 12, 13.

Prayer—Continue to teach us to pray, Lord.

Barcelona—Wonder City.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Sunny Spain! Barcelona, Seville, Madrid, Granada—names to conjure with, all of them. And the picturesque hotelmen they offer to tired tourists smacks, too, of the conjurer's art. The Catalonian country, especially, provides a pleasant contrast to the frozen sterility from which those of us who can, get away in the winter season.

Traveling northeast to Barcelona from Madrid, one crosses stony steppes, dusty, yellow plains, and ranges of sinister, rocky hills. Mud colored villages are strung along the tracks wherever water is to be found, and at each station sun-dried peasants may be seen on the platforms, their heads wrapped in gaudy kerchiefs over which they wear broad-brimmed black hats of measureless antiquity.

Founded in the third century, B. C., by the Carthaginian, Hamilcar Barca, Barcelona is a strange blending of the old and the new. Its streets and avenues are the widest, straightest and most modern of Spain, its buildings the cleanest and its people the most interesting. Yet within its boundaries are some of the most ancient relics of European civilization.

Surrounding the city are the fortified hills of Montjuich, reminders of feudal days. At the seaward end of the beautiful Rambla is the ancient arsenal, built in 1243 and still serviceable today. Nearby is the city's chief civic structure, the Casa Consistorial, a splendid Gothic hall, erected in 1369. Only slightly younger than this is the Lonja, or exchange, which was completed in 1383. Among the many old and famous churches to be visited, the most interesting probably are those of Santa Maria del Mar, Santa Ana, and Santos Justoy Pastor.

Southern Spain is more languorous and romantic than the Catalonian country. Seville in spring is exquisite. But to one who has poked about in every nook and corner of Spain, the mind returns most often to Barcelona. — Copyright, 1929, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Thursday, July 8.

Floods were sweeping the states of Missouri and Iowa.

The Star stated that Mr. and Mrs. Ward H. Bones had left the day before for an extended tour of the Northwest and West.

The Star reported how Fred Klopp, of Galion, had mistaken his six-year-old son for a burglar, early in the morning of the day before, and shot and killed him.

All western Asia was shaken by an unusually severe earthquake.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Perrine, of Blaine avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Everly, the latter formerly Carrie Shively, fourteen, returned from Covington, Kentucky, where they had been married two days before.

George Carey, seventy-eight, tired of life, hung himself at Agosta.

The Star told of the marriage, the day before, of Miss Bertha Sensell and Mr. Lee Everly, by Rev. George E. Barnard.

The lives of Charles Klinefelter and Fred Davies were saved by Guernsey Lunger, when the canoe in which the three lads were boating on Lake McKinley upset. Lunger alone could swim and he held them up till they could clutch the canoe, which didn't sink, and then towed them ashore.

Morgan pitched for Marion and lost to Moore, of Newark, seven to two.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dodge, of State street.

The Star reported the birth of a daughter, the day before, to Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Mills, of south Prospect street.

Small-car stories are very popular in England. This is from Sporting and Dramatic News:

The owner of a midget ran out of petrol several miles from a village. After a long wait a Rolls came in sight and he hailed it, explaining his plight. The chauffeur walked carefully around the little 'un, then said:

"Won't work, eh? Perhaps you don't need petrol at all! 'Ow about a new flint?"

The stately old aristocrat was approached somewhat cockily by a rich and vulgar young man, who announced:

"Yes, indeed," was the reply. "Which one interests you? The maid or the cook?"

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, July 8—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up to visit Mr. Adlerblum, the tax counting expert, who arranged a budget for income taxes, which I professed to understand albeit it is Greek. Lunched on a dish spiced with onion and garlic and smelt like a switch engine the rest of the day.

With Ewing Galloway, the photographer, to watch him play tennis and high through the town on a bus top to Washington square wandering through the "Village." And as the rate man yelled for a sleeping fellow to get off his door step tout suite—adding "it's cooler the sweeter."

In the evening with my wife and Mrs. Julius Walsh to a dinner of corn pone and beans and more onions. And to a theater where I told George Jean Nathan a fellow had telegraphed me: "If you think you're Nathan you're crazy," and he cracked, "I had Mencken send that." To bed weary.

Those who enjoy a little way-back-when, may try to compare the modern whisper low bar to the old-time saloon. The only missing feature seems to be the smelly empty beer kegs piled out front. Cruets of cloves, orange peel and coffee still dot the mahogany and on holidays mirrors are soaped with pleached art of old. In many places the swing doors lead directly from the street, giving passers by an intimate peep of busy bartenders scraping off the froth.

Yet that easy-mannered languor of the old saloon is gone. The modern mode is that like a burglar creeping through a hall. Everybody is whetted to a cat-like expectancy. They gulp and run.

The Knickerbocker bar was perhaps the most famous of all. Here hung Maxfield Parrish's painting of old King Cole. Six barkeeps, with sharp and ready tongues, were on constant duty. The whisky glasses were the largest in town and the crowd the most colorful. Life ran high. In the capacious deep-cushioned seats against the wall one might see Wilson Mizner, Al Woods, Frank O'Malley, Paul Armstrong, Caruso and a host of others. Actors, star journalists, reigning novelists, producers and playwrights dropped in some time during the day. Imitation celebrities, clutching at the spotlight, drifted in and out along with the professional "Southerners," the broken-down opera singers and the latest figures in the town's high scandals.

When the Knickerbocker hung up its shutters, a large-sized room was filled with canes left hanging to the bar rail and never claimed. They were sent to a home for cripples.

One of the reasons for the old Knickerbocker's prosperity might be gleaned from the fact that its proprietor, Jim Reagan, arose every morning at 5 o'clock and tasted the morning supply of coffee to see that it was right.

Night court brings a curious crowd to see the exposition of human suffering at close range. The picture rarely varies—fat and rheumy-eyed attendants, the querulous stenographer, the court physician with his pedantically-pointed beard, hawk-like bondsmen and the rachitic line of shifty-eyed prisoners blinking in from the gloomy, mysterious depths. The odor is a blending of lysol, heat and unwashed bodies—dry and sad. The magistrates seem hurried, trying futilely to focus attention upon the wailing wretches before them. But thoughts appear remote. Now and then a group of gin-giggly girls come to night court for a lark and apparently dredge amusement out of the despair. The night I was there a jurist stopped proceedings abruptly and suggested the night was excellent for walking. They tip-toed out.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Much talk in the last few weeks about snobs. Who is a snob? What is a snob? Be a snob, says a public speaker; keep after the rich, marry the daughter of the boss.

Snobs are folks who truckle to the rich who imitate those in higher positions. Snobs want to appear something they are not. Snobs are substitutes, imitations, paste diamonds. Why worship the rich because they are rich? Did you ever find a rich man happier than a man in moderate circumstances? The only rich men who get much happiness out of their wealth are those who give it away, who are generous in impulse and deed. Why worship the rich, imitate the rich, truckle to the rich? Why imitate anybody? Why not be yourself, making no play for the favor of others?

Some successful men, even some famous men, scorn good clothes. Young men shouldn't be much influenced by that. Spending money for good clothes is a wise investment. You can be sure the man from whom you seek a job is going to make a careful examination of you. He is going to be moved much by first impressions. If you look good, you've got a running start.

The next step is to live up to your good clothes.

One reads that in a small Ohio town a lot of people, working in relays, have been reading the Bible from cover to cover. The idea is to read the whole Bible in one day or a certain number of hours. The readers will probably be little influenced by what they read. Much which they read they will not even understand. How much better to give that time to doing a few definite, useful things! How much better to occupy those hours putting into practice a few of the better known truths of the Bible!

Most of the time our duties are not arduous enough to call for the exercise of more than a few of the billion brain cells with which we are equipped. We work a little and say we are tired. That's just a bad habit—this custom of feeling tired. Man only scratches the surface of his real capacity. There are reservoirs of resources in the brain which we rarely tap, which we never tap. Being satisfied with superficial results, we use our brains only superficially. Now and then it is a good thing to give the brain a real workout, to do some hard, concentrated work, to exercise the mind.

SONG OF RUSSIA ON WHITEMAN PROGRAM

ONE of those haunting melodies that have been written about the barren wastes of Russia, "Song of Siberia", will be featured by Paul Whiteman and his orchestra during the next Old Gold-Paul Whiteman Hour to be broadcast over the Columbia network at 8 o'clock Tuesday night. The program will originate in KMTR, University City, California.

Forty stations of the Columbia chain will rebroadcast the program nationally. "Drigo Serenade", an unusual waltz number, is another selection in this group.

The Master of Jazz, in response to a number of requests, will have his rhythm boys sing both "Canoodle-Oodle Along" and "Meander in the Meadow", two popular song hits. Bing Crosby and Jack Fulton, the much-liked soloists of the Whiteman organization, will help out with the vocal choruses.

GRANGE TAKES STAND ON STATE MEASURES

County Organization To Oppose Bender Proposal and Back Tax Amendment

Marion County Pomona grange unanimously voted to oppose the Bender reapportionment referendum bill and to this support the tax limit amendment, both to come up for popular vote this fall, when the grange met Saturday night in the Mt. Olive Grange hall.

S. B. Stowe, Summit st. county legislative agent for the grange, was instructed to cooperate with the state grange organization in developing and carrying on a county campaign on these two measures in which the grange is actively interested.

A report was made of the progressive outlook for securing the 1930 state grange meeting for Marion. Announcement of the splendid support of the Marion Chamber of Commerce was enthusiastically received. O. C. McCurdy is chairman of the grange committee and Fred E. Guthery is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee.

Instead of the annual picnic of the county grange, a basket supper will precede the regular meeting Sept. 7 at the Claridon township centralized school building, the meeting place of Richland grange.

Degree work of the grange will be exemplified in full form for the benefit of the members of Richland grange, a new organization. Refreshments and a social time were enjoyed Saturday night.

An interesting feature of the meeting was that in the more than 100 attending, each of the 10 granges in the county was represented. This is the first time in several years that this has occurred in the roll call.

WEEK'S SHEEP LOSS REPORTED AT $101

Reports of Dog Raids Come from Prospect and Waldo Townships

Sheep losses as a result of raids by dogs amounted to $101 in Marion county last week, according to the weekly report filed by Dale Rhoads, county dog warden, with the board of county commissioners.

Six sheep were killed and 10 injured, the report shows. Edward T. Jones, of Prospect township, suffered a loss of $29 when dogs killed two and injured four sheep in his flock. A $72 loss was caused when four sheep were killed and six injured in the flock owned by Darst & Rawlings, of Waldo township.

Two dogs were impounded by the warden during the week, according to the report.

Meeting Called by Convention Committee

Representatives of various lines of business, lodges and clubs of the city have been asked to attend a meeting of the convention committee of the Chamber of Commerce at Hotel Harding at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The meeting will be held in the hotel ballroom. A lunch will be served. It was stated today by members of the committee. Attorney Fred E. Guthery, chairman of the convention committee, will preside.

BRING OLD CHARGE

Mt. Vernon Youth To Be Arraigned on Manslaughter Count

NEWARK, July 8—Graham Day, 17, Mount Vernon, is to be arraigned in municipal court here late today, on a manslaughter charge, growing out of an auto crash in January, in which Mrs. Reuben Smith, Newark, was fatally injured. Day was arrested at his home late Saturday.

Deliberation on the part of officials has been due to failure to agree whether injuries received in the crash or organic heart trouble and asthma, from which she suffered, caused Mrs. Smith's death.

Day's failure to negotiate a sharp curve while traveling at a high rate of speed, caused him to crash into the auto in which Mrs. Smith was riding, it is alleged.

THREE ALARMS CALL OUT LOCAL FIREMEN

Gas Leak Ignited in Uptown District Cause of One Blaze

A rainy week-end was of but little value in checking fires in Marion. Three calls were answered Saturday and Sunday by local firemen.

A youth playing with matches on Prospect st. near the Uhler-Phillips store ignited a gas leak near the sewer, Saturday night shortly after 9 o'clock. Flames about a foot in height resulted. Companies Nos. 1, 2 and 3 were sent to extinguish the fire. No damage was done.

Matches in a dresser at the home of I. E. Wittbolger, 1160 Cheney av., caused $5 damage to the dresser when they were mysteriously ignited at 9 o'clock Saturday night. Companies Nos. 1 and 2 answered the call.

A short circuit on a car on the second floor of the Hoch garage on South Prospect st. caused $2 damage to the car yesterday afternoon at 1:40 o'clock before firemen cut the shorted cable. As the garage adjoins the central fire station, none of the equipment was run out to answer the call.

200 ARMY OFFICERS HELD IN ROUMANIA

Military Plot Against Government of Premier Manlu Revealed

BERLIN, July 8—A Roumanian military plot against the government of Premier Manlu has been discovered, according to reports received in Vienna from Bucharest and telegraphed here.

More than 200 Roumanian army officers have been arrested.

Among the prisoners are General Brosjeanu and General Angelescu.

The Roumanian press is forbidden to publish details of the plot.

It is believed here that the possibilities of former Crown Prince Carol's return to Roumania may be involved in the conspiracy.

Julius Manlu, who succeeded M. Bratianu as head of the Roumanian government, is leader of the powerful Roumanian Peasant party. He took office with his cabinet at Bucharest on Nov. 11, 1928.

Before his succession to power Manlu was credited with favoring the return of Carol to his native land. After he became premier, however, Manlu ceased to advocate Carol's return.

COMPANY DISBANDS AT GRAND THEATER

Early Closing Partially Due to Arrest of Leading Man on Indiana Affidavit

The Harry Rollins players, who have been appearing at the Grand Theater the last three weeks, disbanded last night. Nearly all of the actors and actresses had left the city this morning.

Halton Powell, owner of the show and an "old-time" theater man, was here today closing up the show and packing scenery, etc., for the summer. It is understood that the theater will be closed for two weeks to redecorate.

The early closing was partially due to the arrest of Harry Rollins, Friday afternoon on a bench warrant from Muncie, Ind., where he was wanted on a non-support charge. He was taken to Indiana yesterday by Muncie officials after waiving extradition and requisition rights. Had Rollins been allowed to remain free, the show would have probably continued here until the end of this week, Powell said today.

NO TRACE OF BOY

Visit to Delaware Last Seen of Earl Zimmer 13

No trace had been found today of Earl Zimmer 13 of New Woodstock who left his home here Friday morning on a pedal motorbicycle The boy passed through Delaware Friday night the last person of him M that place he discarded his paper sack and sidecamp a book both of which he used as a paper carrier for The Star

He parents say conversation with neighbors revealed that he was anxious to be a golf caddy and had spoken of going to Columbus to do this work

This is the second time in a few weeks that Zimmer left home

[illegible] had left her desk

tute mine to call there to interview her on Lance's errand that morning * * *

June sat dumb bending a desolate gaze to the tablecloth Fairless with hang-dog head and hands thrust far down into his pockets was weaving about the room with the aimlessness of a man completely confounded

Tabor moved to the table filled a glass with water and sipped in thoughtful silence

Well Fairless abruptly demanded hasting Now you've coolly up a case that won't bear airing for June's sake * * * what do you want

I have already made my mind clear '

Tabor put down the glass and wearily turned anew to the business in hand It is my intention to be divorced, for desertion and no graver cause with all possible expedition—

What's your hurry? Don't tell me you've fallen for ingenuous Jenny is hard as all that '

Tabor's mouth tightened his eyes narrowed June looking up interposed a tirade Whats this —got quickly to her feet and stood looking from the one man to the other Who do you mean?

Why' Fairless in make believe wonder replied— haven't you tumbled yet? What d'you suppose has come over this man to make him so keen about a divorce all of a sudden? He wants to get married again of course

To get married

Here's over head in love already with the dear little waif he's taken under a father's wing—that's the answer

I have cautioned you once Fairless Tabor with frigid deliberation reminded It is distasteful to me to answer insolence with threa—

Oh' so it's 'threats now is it? Besides himself in his thwarted fury Fairless flung truculently across the room to confront Tabor at close range

And what about them? June's her own mistress if she wants to take dictation from you that's her affair But perhaps I won't handle so easily what about me?

Tabor's eyes did not yield to that infuriated glare but before answering he was taken with a little cough of reassurance.

You may as well know he said. I have been in secret communication with my office for nearly a week I spent most of today there settling my affairs while waiting for word of your movements. For it is my fixed intention never to be seen again in Philadelphia * * * if that matters * * *

You may not be aware that I am an officer of the bank with which you have your account also of the bank where June and I have ours See? I go into more painful details? O do you want it to become known that you are the sort of man who takes money from women

The face scowling into his blazed with aggravated charm but its lips retained stainless only Again June came between the two

It isn't true she loyally protested I never * * *

But you can hardly explain away the peculiar coincidence that you at various times since my disappearance have drawn out of bank $87 000 in currency and that on the same dates Lance has banked to his account the same sums in cash Not that we need say more about the matter unless Lance insists * * *

He did not insist instead he flung away again half hiding his face An actor more reverent of tradition will have taken to gnawing his nails

There is little profit in this wrangling We understand each other well enough In heaven's name let us get the rest said and done with as quickly as we can

June confronting her husband alone gave a nod her tongue released Please' that was barely audible

Benjamin Thirlow will represent me ' Tabor directly went on When you are ready let your attorney communicate with him I make three stipulations one I have already stated—no matter what you may decide to allege in your petition Miss Challis must not be mentioned The second is that you lose no time The third I shall exact now as a formal pledge from each of you

He paused and Fairless listening at the far end of the room came back with a reluctant gait Well he said jeeringly prompted

As soon as it is legally possible once June has been granted her decree you will marry

Of course

But Fairless was less ready And out of consideration for June Tabor fabricated an excuse for him

You need not hesitate on Effie's account I am in a position to tell you that a state and divorce representations have already been made to her parents She will leave within a few days for a year in Europe

When she is gone you will be permitted to announce that the engagement has been broken off by mutual consent I am further in a position" Tabor drily added, 'to advise you that your attempts to be circumspect have not been successful People are already talking—in whispers it is true—but talking

That is why I stipulate that your wedding take place without delay after the divorce June and I are waiting for your answer' '

But you both knew what it would be from the first '

Nevertheless, I require your word of honor

You pretend to believe what you pretend to believe Fairless in his last ditch snarled, and talk about accepting my word'

Men of your stripe I have noticed honor the words they have passed to—men

Oh' June flared— you dare suggest Lance would——'

If I do him an injustice" Tabor cut in without releasing Fairless from the demand implicit in his attitude I owe him no apology Why does the fellow quibble do you suppose and shy away from the point? Doesn't he know that if you divorce me you will be left a richer woman but er able to support a husband of luxurious habits?

Damn you Fairless muttered— you'll pay for that In the end more than you think

But now?

Oh' if you must have it your way * * * Word of honor'

Very good

Tabor took his hat went to the door unlocked it but with hand on the knob waited rooted in indecision for a long minute

In the room behind him no one moved or spoke

Of a sudden and without another word or one look back he opened the door and went out taking with him something he would gladly have gone a thing a vision of that room more vivid and for true than any human mortal could have seized and held a mental picture of the tableau those two were holding whom he left to search each the other's countenance with eyes that new knowledge had made quick with mutual distrust

Though he had owed them no mercy and had not faltered in meting out justice to them according to his light it was in his heart immediately to be sorry for them who in mad haste to win the idea of their desire had not hesitated to lay his life waste only in this end to find the promise of their own a desert—sterile bitter and implacable

Sorry at least for June most pitiful of June * * *

Love's Awakening

THE HEART STORY OF A WOMAN'S AFFECTIONS

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Endeavors to Explain

In our apartment from which the indefatigable Parcell already had removed all traces of the announcement dinner except the roses Phillip Veritasu and I faced each other from our seats opposite and across a small table With burlesqued mimicry of a head waiter Lillian had shown us to those seats and then stepping back had swept us a low bow

Now old dear, she said addressing the great theatrical producer I've given you the opportunity to unbutton your mental pockets and turn out the contents upon the table But please remember to make your colloquy snappy The hostess mustn't leave her party in the lurch too long you know '

There was a warning to him in her words I knew and he acknowledged it as he smiled an adieu to her

I shall forget nothing he said but the door scarcely had closed behind her before he broke the taut understanding between them

Just a moment he said rising from his chair With your permission——'

He took a low bowl of roses from a nearby table and set it between us

There' he said his eyes going from my face to the flowers in a fashion most embarrassing to me Now this is perfect A beautiful woman always should have roses near her

I sat a bit straighter in my chair

You did not come here to talk of women and roses did you I asked caustically

He looked at me with sudden laughter in his eyes

I love your impudence he said Then his conversational weather vane veered suddenly as he saw the annoyance in my eyes which I could no more have hidden even if I had wished to do so

'What Did It Mean?'

You are both right and wrong he said soberly I did come in here to talk of women—one in particular the Princess Olina You heard that stifled No' she uttered when the betrothal of Prince Georges to your husband's niece was announced What did it mean?

I braced myself for a countering query which I feared would offend him

How far may I go in kindly criticism of your future daughter in law? I asked

His eyebrows contracted and his mouth closed firmly Then his lips relaxed into a smile

I will listen to anything from you he said with subtle stress upon the pronoun and I guessed that I had made a good choice of words in referring to the future status of the Transylvanian Princess even though they were wholly mendacious on my part

Then I said hastily ignoring the emphasis of his words and glances that exclamation of Princess Olina's meant to my mind only the plaint of a spoiled child who wants to eat her cake and have it too

He started violently

Olina's Infatuation

Just what 'd you mean by that? he demanded Do you think that the Princess is undecided which man she wishes to marry—my boy or Prince Georges?'

No that is not my meaning ' I said hastily thinking that for the present I probably was reflecting Princess Olina's emotions truthfully I think that she is very much infatuated with Noel

You think it only infatuation then he interposed quickly

Isn't all love infatuation? I countered quickly and a mirth in kindled in his eyes which made me drop my own

That's a question which needs unlimited time for discussion he said with teasing laughter in his voice But I'll rest content with your assurance that Princess Olina —he rolled her title with relish— is still in love with my cub Why then the betrothing No when she heard the announcement of Prince Georges betrothal

Because I said patiently she has an exaggerated idea of the dignity which doth hedge a king and she was shocked that her affianced heir to the throne of Ivoss should be contemplating marriage with a commoner such as she deems Mar I have a shrewd idea also that Prince Georges in days gone by gave her the opportunity to become the future Queen of Ivoss She does not want the title here If but she is feminine enough to relish seeing a girl who once desires an inferior being proffered it

Philip Veritasu's brows drew together again this time in a decided frown

You have used the words a commoner and an inferior Do you mean me to infer that the Princess looks upon my son as such?

ROGER'S

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M LEWIS

SUNDAY which was yesterday was a warm and hammy day All summer days are warm and I suppose they are hammy I don't know what hammy is only that it is something a winter day ain't I got to thinking about Hopper and what the doctor and the lady said to each other and what Hopper said afterwards that when the man felt of his hip with both hands it felt kinda friendly and as if he knew all about how little bones are made I would be awful glad if Hopper could be fixed so that he would be all right and like other boys but I don't know where our bunch would get a crip to take his place Every bunch ought to have one

I let Jubilee down and done my stuff out in the barn and went in and fed my face and then took my face out to the kitchen by the door for me ant to work on I don't like her washing my face in the summer because she leaves the door open and the bunch comes and stands around and tries to make up the same kinds of face that I do But a fella has to have soap in his eyes and nose and mouth and ears to make up faces like I do

We took the cows to the pasture and let them in and closed the gate on them and then we went up the creek past the fence to go in so that if the girls came they couldn't sneak up on us There was a big button ball tree there and we saw a pee wee nest on the end of a limb that reached all the way across the creek and the Lost Bag of Tripe said he was going to rob it. I told him he wasn't going to do anything of the kind, not on Sunday, and he just grinned and said Watch me, and went climbing up the tree He crawled out on the branch on his stummick as far as the nest almost, and when the branch bent down where me and Nibs could jump and grab some of the twigs we did, and then we got hold of bigger ones and the bunch got hold and we slid down the bank and the Lost Bag of Tripe was getting ready to jump off when I hollered Three and we all let go at once and the limb swished up like lightning and flung the Lost Bog of Tripe off and that was why he wasn't at Sunday school He came down on the bank so hard it busted his pants.

Today was Monday and we played ball and went swimming out to the railroad bridge and out to the back of the poorhouse and down at the lake and then I went out for my cows and got jawed at because I hadn't stayed home and played with Annabelle Lee She ain't my dotter I'd like to know what they think I am

103 In Hospitals, Crushed And Trampled In Stampede

PANIC ENSUES WHEN FLAMES BURST OUT

Blaze Occurs as Negro Baseball Game Starts on Detroit Field

FOUR MAY NOT LIVE

Majority of Those Hurt Receive Injuries as Crowds Jump from Stand

DETROIT, July 8—Crushed and trampled in a stampede for exits when the wooden main grandstand of the Mack baseball park burst into flames, 103 persons were in hospitals today, four of them near death.

The fire and panic occurred just before the hour set for the start of the opening game of a double-header between the Detroit Stars and the Kansas City Monarchs, negro teams.

Those probably fatally hurt are Richard Ross, 35; James Thomas, 34, and Lery Thomas, 19, who suffered fractured skulls, and William Harvey, 32, whose spine was broken.

Most of the other victims, among them many women and children, sustained fractures of limbs. Dozens of others knocked down and cut and bruised in the scramble were receiving medical attention in their homes.

Quiz Him About Gasoline

The majority of the more seriously hurt were those battered down by the descending heels of fear-stricken fans who jumped from the upper tiers onto the milling mass.

Police officials investigating the fire questioned John Roesink, head of the Mack Avenue Exhibition Co., which operates the park. He said he had brought into the park a five-gallon can of gasoline he intended to spread on the wet ground and ignite to dry the soil.

Leap From Stand

As he was about to touch a match to the gasoline, he asserted, he heard cries of "Fire" and, looking up, saw flames enveloping the west end of the stand. Many in the upper seats leaped 30 feet to the ground. Those in the center of the stand surged down toward the field. Some jumped upon the heads of those below.

Detective Lieut. George W. Smith, head of the arson squad, said he believed gasoline was not the cause of the blaze but a match dropped by someone set fire to the dry wood of the stand.

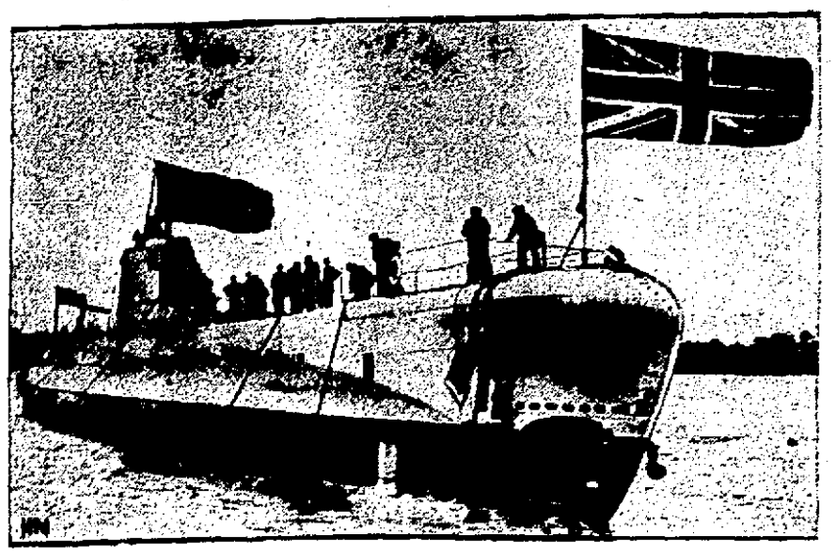
ENGLAND'S NEW UNDER SEA MYSTERY BOAT



H. M. Submarine "Patrician" embodies many new principles in submarine construction and will be closely watched by naval experts the world over. The mystery craft is shown above as she slid off the ways after being christened by Mrs. Stirling, wife of Rear-Admiral A. J. B. Stirling, at London.

"Bob" Sproul, California U. Prexy, Raised on Campus He Now Rules

Twenty Years Ago He Was Green Freshman; Now He's President

BY JAMES ADAM

BERKELEY, July 8—Meet the president-elect of the University of California, one of the largest educational institutions in the world. Robert Gordon Sproul he was christened. But it is as Bob Sproul that he is known familiarly to everyone connected with the university, faculty, alumni undergraduates and state officials alike.

Up from the ranks of the university he has come. Twenty years ago he was a green freshman, as green as they make them, it is admitted. But he went through with flying colors and graduated four years later, an honor student.

Originally he's a native son of San Francisco. Born there 38 years ago—May 22, 1891.

A Good Mixer

A tall handsome chap he is; blonde hair, husky voice, well-chosen words, charming personality and a neat dresser.

Not exactly a hand-wringer but a good mixer and just the opposite of the quiet, solid silver-haired Dr. William Wallace Campbell who retires as head of the state university next June at the age of 67.

Full of "inspirational" talk is Bob Sproul—"bigger, better things for our university."

On the campus here they tell you he's a "regular fellow"—the kind of a man you can slap on the back in a spirit of camaraderie.

Entirely different from the pedagogic type a university professor is generally pictured to be.

Bob Sproul is more collegiate—athletic, hail-fellow-well-met, who is easy to meet and is at home anywhere. He makes friends—and keeps them.

His appointment by the board of regents to succeed the elderly Dr. Campbell came as a surprise to the state at large but not to those on the inside of the college affairs.

For a long time it has been known that the regents have been grooming the good-looking likeable Bob Sproul for the president's job.

Groomed for Job

Young as he is, business and professional leaders, bankers and educators, comprising the board, saw in him, several years back, an ideal and able executive and administrator to head the university when the proper time arrived. That time is now at hand.

For 14 years he has been an officer of the university, starting as cashier and going straight up the ladder to the top.

The last nine years he has been comptroller—the business administrator of the university handling an $8,000,000 budget annually.

His brilliant work in supervising and managing the diversified affairs of the institution, which included the general managership of a water company and lumber firm, attracted the attention of the outside world but he was loyal to his alma mater.

He rejected all outside offers, and they were numerous.

Sproul was boyishly bashful after his appointment became known. Telegrams, letters and messages of congratulations flooded his office but he kept out of sight. He did not desire to be blinded by the spotlight of public attention.

No Prophecies

Asked to make prophecies and to announce plans and policies Sproul just the same as said:

"I am not in a position to presume to do that at this time," meaning that he will not actually be president of the University of California until July 1, 1930.

"Of course I am interested, and vitally so, in the university more than anything else right now."

Sproul will be the youngest president the state university has ever had. He will have supervision over a total of approximately 22,500 students, more than 11,000 of whom are graduates and undergraduate students in Berkeley.

After his graduation Sproul became efficiency engineer for the city of Oakland from 1913 to 1915 and then went to the university as cashier, later being made assistant comptroller.

In 1920 he was promoted to comptroller and secretary of the board of regents. It was from then on that he began attracting attention. In 1925 he was named one of two vice presidents of the university at a salary of $10,000 a year. As president he will receive $12,000 annually.

Thousands in Akron for Odd Fellows' Meet

AKRON, July 3—Thousands of persons were here today from all sections of the state to attend the annual state convention of the Odd Fellows.

Word was received from Baltimore, Md., that Grand Sire Frank Martin of Boise, Idaho, was stricken ill in the former city while enroute here for the convention, and would be unable to attend.

A grand parade of all divisions of the lodge was to be a feature of the convention.

BIG BUSINESS

LONDON—Richard Levy, 14, had an eye for business. He is a modeler of boats when he finds time off from playing with other children. He valued his models so much that he had one, a little craft fitted with a boiler, insured for about $40. The craft in cruising in a pond was wrecked and the boy received a check from the insurance company.

CLAM-DIGGING PIG

ROCKLAND, Me. — Patrolman Charley Emery's pig is his prize pet. The swine has been taught to dig clams. The policeman lets him loose in the mud flats and the pig roots out the clams. He is able to differentiate between mud clams and the genuine ones.

It must be as hard to be a tyrant as it is to bear his tyranny.

Another admirer lost for Janet ... all because of "B.O."
(Body Odor)

WHAT a bitter disappointment the evening had been!

Allen had been politeness itself. But somehow, Janet knew she hadn't made a good impression on this new admirer.

Whose fault? Janet didn't know then. But there's no "B.O."—no body odor robbing her of popularity now. Let her tell you what she learned about this treacherous fault and the easy way to end it by keeping perspiration odorless.

Hotter weather—yet no "B.O."

"Like everybody else, I perspire more freely in summer. But I never dreamed I was guilty of 'B.O.' Now I realize why. We become insensitive to ever-present odors. But the pores constantly give off odor-causing waste—as much as a quart daily.

"So Lifebuoy's my only toilet soap now. And I love it! No other toilet soap has ever made me feel so completely, thrillingly clean—and safe—as Lifebuoy. Its refreshing, antiseptic lather purifies pores so deeply, 'B.O.' is impossible.

"How clear Lifebuoy keeps my skin, too. And it's a real safeguard against germs. Lifebuoy's pleasant, extra-clean scent, that vanishes as you rinse, tells you it purifies."

A Remarkable Achievement
BY BERKEY & GAY
During
STYLE WEEK AT SCHAFFNER'S

Introducing the Entirely New Principle of "Paired-Suite" Construction . . .

A new principle of construction lowers the prices of Berkey & Gay suites to a new low, unheard-of level.

If you have thought that style-correct Berkey & Gay furniture was beyond your reach—if you have longed to own furniture as impeccably designed, as richly hand carved, and as wonderfully convenient, as only Berkey & Gay can produce—this announcement will be good news to you. An entirely new principle of "Paired-Suite" construction brings two of Berkey & Gay's suites to you at $100 less than you would ordinarily have to pay. They are created in exactly the same design, decorative elements exactly the same in each suite; the same carvings; the same panels; the same woods. And many dollars have been saved in each manufacturing operation. Now you may own a Berkey & Gay suite and be truly proud of your bedroom or dining room. See these two—The Lyndheath and Lyndhurst!

Special Prices—

During this style week special reduced prices will prevail on all Berkey & Gay furniture in our store, this applies to odd pieces as well as complete suites.

The LYNDHEATH

Beauty and comfort for your bedroom are in "The Lyndheath." Hand-matched walnut in beautiful fan pattern combined with Australian stripe-walnut and maple burl. Structural parts of American gumwood. Rich hand-carvings and moldings. A toilet table with large mirror and spacious drawers, and an unusual convenience in the plate glass tray for cosmetics in the right hand drawer. A night table with one drawer for your bedside. Chairs and benches upholstered in rich gold brocade. And yet the suite is priced only $185.

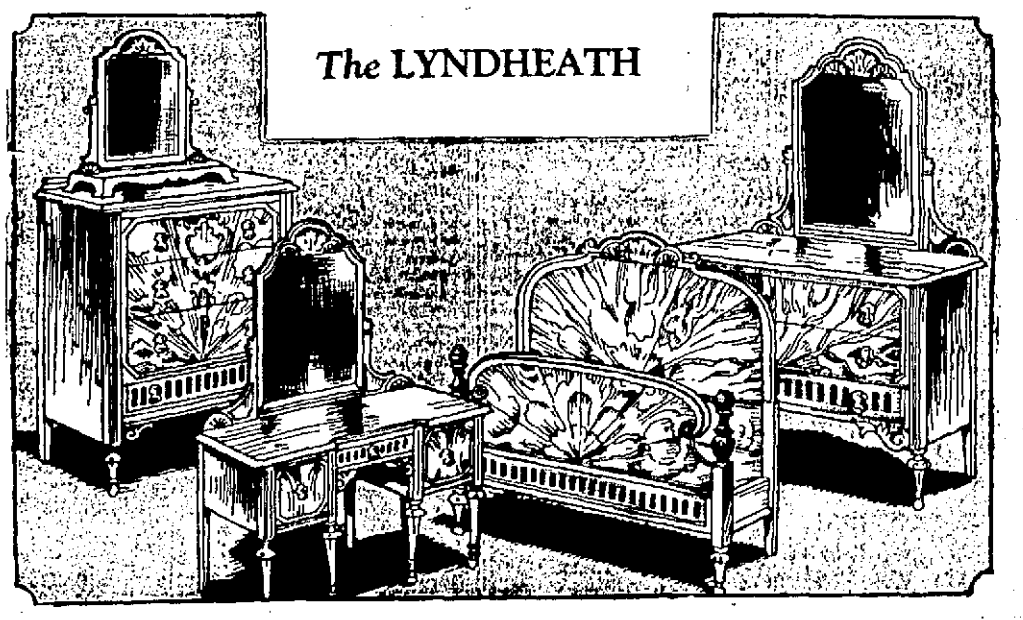
Never Such Low Prices Before



The LYNDHEATH

"The Drew" Bedroom Group

This beautiful bedroom ensemble by Berkey & Gay, is admirably adapted to the home where peace and harmony reign. There is ineffable charm in the smart, yet subdued, shaping of this exquisite suite. $230.

"The Wymperley" Dining Group

Jacobean furniture had a stately grace, for all its sturdiness, and sets the style for this "Wymperley" suite by Berkey & Gay. It was patterned on old historical examples and brings to mind days when the world was colorful and Charles II King. $287.

"The Fuller" Dining Group

Furniture finely styled by Berkey & Gay—Mahoganies in lovely patterns compose its surfaces. Its lines derive from the Colonial period, with its ever fresh appeal. The table is patterned after those of Duncan Phyfe. $490.

The LYNDHURST

A dining room suite especially designed for the charming hostess. Made of beautifully hand matched butt walnut in combination with Australian stripe walnut, maple burl and zebrawood. Structural parts of American gumwood. An eight-foot extension table affords ample room for large gatherings. A unique decorative element is brass mountings on the table legs. And for your convenience—a partitioned tray for silver and a long roomy linen drawer in the sideboard. Chairs are upholstered in rich gold brocade. All carvings and mouldings are the traditional Berkey & Gay hand work by skilled craftsmen.

The LYNDHURST

What this SHOPMARK Means to you

The Berkey & Gay Shopmark on furniture is an indicator of all that is good in things for the home. To you it means that you have secured the utmost in value. To your friends it is an "O. K." on your good taste and good judgment.

—In Style

For over seventy-five years furniture designed under this Shopmark has set the furniture fashions for the nation. This Shopmark on furniture tells you that its style is authentic, that it truthfully reflects a period, that it is in faultless good taste and worthy of a place in the finest surroundings.

—In Construction

No substitutes or imitations are used in Berkey & Gay furniture. There are hand-carvings; drawers are hand fitted; the finish is hand mellowed; woods are hand matched; drawers open smoothly and close tightly; surfaces are warp proof. Berkey & Gay furniture lasts as long as its beauty.

—In Convenience

Notice the many conveniences of Berkey & Gay furniture; plate glass cosmetic tray on vanity dresser; specially designed tray for silver and linen in the sideboard; the handily placed jewelry trays in the dressers. This is furniture meant to be used and enjoyed.

PIONEER RESIDENT OF BUCYRUS DIES

August Broemel Claimed by Death; Widow and Brothers Survive

BUCYRUS, July 8—August Broemel, pioneer citizen of Bucyrus, died at Monnett Memorial hospital at 3 o'clock this morning following an illness of two weeks duration. Complications of diseases was given as the cause of his death.

Mr. Broemel was removed to the hospital two weeks ago He was born Dec. 21, 1851, in Saxony, Germany, and attended school in Stadlim, Germany, after which he took a course in a German college. In 1873 he came to America where he obtained a position as reporter for a German newspaper in Cleveland. He remained in that city until 1874 when he came to Bucyrus. He was married to Miss Emma Leibich, a Bucyrus girl, who survives. In 1879 Mr. Broemel opened a woolen mill on the corner of North Sandusky av. and River st., in the historic Courier building, which was destroyed by fire last January. In 1881 he began publication of the Courier, a German newspaper, with headquarters on the lower floor of the woolen mill building. Mr. Broemel's career as a city official began in 1896 when he was elected to membership in the city council. Twelve years later he was elected to the position of city clerk, which position he very creditably held until his death. Because of his remarkable memory Mr. Broemel has become recognized by all of the city officials as one of the most valuable members of the official staff. Shortly after he was elected clerk of the council Mr. Broemel gave up the woolen mill and in 1916 he discontinued publication of the Courier.

In addition to his widow, Mr. Broemel is survived by one brother, Carl Broemel, of Cleveland, two nephews, Carl and Philip, of Cleveland, and one niece, Mrs. Elsie Marquart, of Cleveland.

Mr. Broemel was a member of the Good Hope Lutheran church and of the Dietrhe Gesellschaft lodge.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

BY HELEN ROWLAND

Sad, But True

MODERN bachelors, like modern hotels, are becoming more and more fireproof, all the time.

Some husbands and wives don't "speak the same language," until they begin barking each other out. The only time when there is "perfect understanding" between them, is when they are enjoying a MISunderstanding.

When Mrs. Corey offered that Bourbon prince only $200,000 for "cigarets and things," she forgot that part of the "overhead" of every foreign princeling or dukelet is a cabaret singer—and blondes are expensive.

Every woman is so busy doing something to attract attention, these days, that the only way to stand out in the crowd and really catch a man's eye is to do nothing at all.

An "understanding woman," in a man's opinion, is one who is just brilliant enough to understand his dullest jokes, and just dull enough to think them brilliant.

When two or three women are gathered together, they have to turn the radio OFF, in order to get the most exciting part of the "broadcasting" and not to miss the low-down.

When women wore clinging skirts, men liked chasing women; now, neither of them seems to want anything that binds them, hangs onto them or has the least weight. Something light and fluffy—and no trouble or responsibility is the big demand.

Possession is nine points of the marriage law; but the office siren banks on the tenth, which is propinquity.

Some married women just TALK themselves out of a life job.

Copyright, 1929, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NOT A LADY-KILLER

"Why did Jones lose his job with the Prohibition people?"

"Too chicken-hearted."

"Too chicken-hearted?"

"Yep. He wouldn't shoot a woman in the back."

MISSED HIS SHOT

"Are you the boy who threw the stone at me?"

"Did it hit you?"

"No"

"Then it wasn't me."

The Ferris wheel received its name from its builder, George W. Ferris, an engineer. The first Ferris wheel was displayed at the Chicago World's Fair.

CRAWFORD COUNTY MAN FOUND SANE

Mental Test Reveals Low Type of Mentality in Crestline Prisoner

BUCYRUS, July 8—Although a severe mental test revealed a very low scale of mentality, William Dukes, facing trial for his life for the murder of his alleged sweetheart, Anna Freeman, at Crestline, May 22, was proven sane in a test administered at Columbus Saturday where he was taken by his Attorney Calvin Knisely of Galion, in a eleventh hour attempt to build up an alibi based on insanity. Dukes and his attorney were accompanied to Columbus by Sheriff George Davenport and Prosecuting Attorney J. D. Sears.

Dukes was indicted for first degree murder by the grand jury recalled for special session several weeks ago When appearing before the court on other occasions it was reported that the prisoner who at first confessed to the murder but later changed his plea to not guilty, acted peculiar.

A special venire of 32 names has been drawn all of whom are ordered to appear in common pleas court Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock when choosing of a jury will feature opening of the trial. It is probable that selection of the jury will occupy the greater portion of the morning

BREAK WINDOW

Two Other Safes in Building Left Unmolested by Thieves

BUCYRUS, July 8—For the second time within nearly a month, the A. L Holloway Ford Garage and Sales and Service station, located on East Mansfield st., was robbed, this time the loss amounting to $455.

The loss was discovered Sunday morning by W. J Holloway, who he arrived at the garage to open for business Sunday morning Police are inclined to believe that the robbery was committed by the same persons who looted the place of $3,160 May 20, as entrance to the building and safes was gained much in the same manner

Entrance to the building was made by breaking the glass in a window and tools from a car standing in the garage were used to knock the combination off the safes. The tools were left strewn about on the floor of the garage. A fingerprint expert was summoned this morning from Columbus, to aid police in tracing a clue to the robbery.

Two other safes in the building, also containing money were not molested. Repairs on the safe following the robbery in May were completed only last Monday.

NEURITIS PAINS ARE ROUTED BY DR. PARKER'S TREATMENT

Suffered For Five Years Before Finding Relief in Famous Old Prescription.

RUSSELL MAPLE
62 N. Court St., Athens, O.

"For five years I have suffered from a severe case of neuritis and from a complication of stomach and kidney troubles. I never got a whole night's rest, and was tortured almost constantly by the terrible stabbing neuritis pains. Constipation caused me to feel sluggish and irritable. I doctored with local doctors and tried many other medicines but could get no results. Then, on the advice of a friend, I started taking Dr. Parker's Treatment. This was the beginning of an amazing new health and happiness for me. Within a week my constipation was relieved. In three months time the neuritis had disappeared altogether, and I felt better than I had for years. My family and I are unable to praise Dr. Parker's Prescription too highly, and urge that every family have a can in the home."

McCormick-Deering Binding Attachments

The McCormick-Deering grain binder has one advantage not found in any other grain binder. The purchaser can have his machine equipped with either a McCormick or Deering binding attachment. Many grain growers have become accustomed to one or the other of these binding attachments, and because of their knowledge of the adjustments, prefer to have the same equipment on their new machines. The McCormick-Deering grain binder has been so constructed that it can be equipped with either binding attachment without any alterations in the construction of the binder otherwise.

Features that have made McCormick-Deering Binding Attachments popular are the following:

1. Convenient shift to keep the twine around the middle of the bundle.
2. Butt adjuster lever within easy reach of the driver.
3. Simple knotter, easily threaded and seldom requiring adjustment.
4. Parts over which twine runs are hardened to prevent wear.
5. Twine tension prevents overfeeding of twine and eliminates looseness between needle and ball.
6. Twine can is located so that operator can see it and tell when twine needs replenishing.

Men Claiming Male Hat Styles Do Not Change Defeated by These Photographs

Put Crimp in Perennial Complaint About Foibles of Female Fashions

THERE seems to be a fixed idea, especially among husbands, when the bill for the latest feminine fancy comes in, that the foibles of fashion are confined to the fair sex. These everlasting changes of styles in hats, and shoes and dresses—but most especially in hats!

No, sir, conditions like that don't even exist in the fashion life of the male, he boasts. In fact, there are so few changes, he says, he could wear the same straw year in and year out, without ever knowing the difference.

The Hat Institute, which has been designing men's summer headgear for more than fifty years, could supply wifey with some graphic illustrations to refute that vain argument. Since 1872, when the first straw hat was designed for men in this country, there have been gradual changes, so marked in contrast between the two extreme ends that any man venturing forth today in the old-style hat would effectively tie up traffic until he finally ducked for cover, utterly defeated.

That first hat was woven of heavy straw and sat like a little acorn on top of the head. It was thick, heavy and generally unwieldy. Obviously this would never do, so the next change found a hat more symmetrically designed, to combine comfort and style.

Various changes governed the shape of the hat until some fifteen years ago, when it began to take on the general outline it has today. It continued to undergo different little details for improvement in comfort and style, until this year's models have been brought up to a standard that may well stand without change for a long time—at least that is the opinion of most men.

Straw hats had their earliest beginnings in the headgear made of plaited rushes that the working people of ancient Greece employed when they toiled in the fields. From Greece they spread to Rome, and all through Europe, and were successfully introduced into England by Mary, Queen of Scots, who brought plaiters from Lorraine, the birthplace of her mother, to introduce the new industry.

So if anyone should question that the straw hat has passed through various and radical changes, he is simply reminded that seeing is believing, and by seeing, we mean these photographs above, reproductions of the actual models of a by-gone day, bringing them up to date.

What with one thing and another, the evolution of the straw hat was a painful process. That is, the sight of a straw chapeau on the head of a beau of the nineties would be apt to excite more sympathy than anything else for the victim under it. Cast your eye around the rim of this hat and trace the rise of the straw from the ludicrous acorn affair of the early 1800's to the smart "sailor" of today.

230-POUND WOMAN CONFESSES SLAYING

Murders Middle-Aged Lover Because He Was Cruel, She Declares

TOULON, Ill., July 8—Six-foot, 230-pound Laura Weaver, 21-year-old daughter of a wealthy retired farmer, today was a prisoner in the Stark county jail charged with the murder of her middle-aged lover, Wilmer T. Kitselman, whom, she confessed, she strangled with his own belt and then burned the body drenched with naphtha.

She killed Kitselman, who was 52, because he was drunk and cruel, she said. The slaying took place in their apartment over the Yellow Goose, a resort in Wyoming, Ill., on Sunday morning, June 30, while other folk in the quiet village were attending church services.

Miss Weaver said she tied the body with fish line, wrapped it in a patchwork bed quilt, dumped it in the back of her automobile and drove 50 miles to a lonely spot west of Annaman in Henry county where she soaked it with naphtha and left it blazing in a ditch.

Friends Give Up Hope for Pair Out on Lake Erie

CLEVELAND, July 8—More than 90 hours after their departure in a 16-foot motor boat on a trip across Lake Erie, no word had been received here today from Thomas Patterson and John Rossow.

Friends have given up hope that the men even will be found alive, but not so with Patterson's wife and 11-year-old daughter, Mildred. They waited confidently in their home for favorable word from the searching party.

Patterson, business agent for the fathers' union, and Rossow, a boat tender, left the dock here at 5:30 a. m., last Thursday in the Ruth V. They carried 12 gallons of gasoline in the main fuel tank and a reserve supply of 10 gallons.

TRACK TO OPEN

$100,000 Fairfield Oval Will Get Into Action Saturday Night

DAYTON, July 8—Another milestone in the dog racing situation in Ohio will be passed next Saturday night when the Fairfield 100,000 dog racing track opens, near here.

County authorities refused to comment when they were told that the contribution system of betting would be allowed.

Any action to stop the races, will have to be taken by those officials in face of the recent statement of Gov. Myers Y. Cooper that "county officials have ample authority to deal with the situation."

Governor Cooper, it will be remembered, brought statewide attention to the racing situation when he at one time said, "betting at races in Ohio has got to stop."

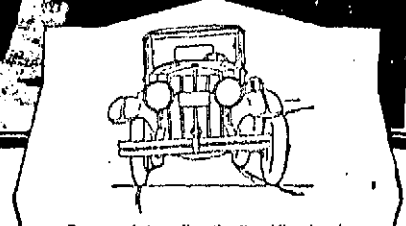
Cannon Ball Baker taking a sharp turn at high speed on Mt. Diablo



Because of air-cooling the Franklin chassis can be built with great flexibility. There are no radiator connections or other plumbing fixtures which require rigid construction for protection. When Franklin takes a turn at high speed, all four wheels cling to the ground. Franklin's flexible frame and full-elliptic springs counteract any sliding or slipping forces. There is a comfortable feeling of stability and safety.

FLEXIBILITY and CONTROL

have enabled Franklin to conquer all major road records

ALL THESE AMAZING ROAD RECORDS NOW HELD BY FRANKLIN

Los Angeles to New York and return—6992 miles in 6½ days—beating previous record by 10 hours, 36 minutes.

New York to Chicago—840 miles in 18 hours, 50½ minutes—beating previous record by 7 hours, 50½ minutes.

New York to Miami—1541 miles in 31 hours, 10 minutes—beating previous record by 7 hours, 57 minutes.

Los Angeles to Phoenix, Desert Derby—892 miles in 17 hours, 47 minutes—beating record by 1 hour, 11 minutes.

San Francisco to Los Angeles—412 miles in 7 hours, 32 minutes—beating previous record by 1 hour, 25 minutes.

Salt Lake City to Los Angeles—765 miles in 14 hours, 57½ minutes—beating previous record by 1 hour, 19½ minutes.

Dallas to El Paso—687 miles in 12 hours, 54 minutes—beating previous record by 1 hour, 44 minutes.

Mt. Washington climb—America's steepest accessible peak—beating previous record by 2 minutes, 10 2/5 seconds.

Mt. Mitchell climb—highest peak east of Rockies—Franklin holds also the round trip record.

Lookout Mountain climb—46% steeper than Pike's Peak—4.6 miles per hour faster than previous record.

Mt. Diablo—difficult California peak—record for up-trip and round-trip.

Franklin has shown the entire automotive industry how to build supreme comfort into fine motor cars. No other American car is comparable to Franklin in roadability, easy control and riding comfort. These tremendously important features played a great part in Franklin's capture of record after record.

The Franklin Owner is always sure of his car—he drives in greatest safety—even at high speeds. Roads are smoothed out—and sharp turns seem like easy curves. Full-elliptic springs—adding to flexibility—cradle his comfort. Perfectly equalized hydraulic brakes and finger-touch steering, emphasize security. In addition to performance, which is powerful, smooth, swift, quiet and comfortable, Franklin also affords the roominess of America's most spacious 5 and 7 passenger sedans.

Find out what Franklin's record-breaking performance means to you. Drive one yourself—anywhere—at any speed.

UNLEASHING a savage attack that netted out 15 hits in the first six innings Galion won the fourth sub district American Legion Junior baseball league title at Lincoln park here Saturday afternoon by defeating the Marion Eagles 17 to 8

It was Marion's first defeat of the league season and Manager McCann used three pitchers in an effort to stem the tide of defeat Eadle Castner and Adams were on the mound for the Eagles

Skahill was the victorious hurler for Galion going the full route and allowing 10 hits In addition he crashed out two hits for one run

The district state tournament will probably be held in Marion during the week of July 17 according to present plans Final arrangements for the tournament will be made for the coming week Teams from Kenton and Toledo will compete with Galion for the right to enter the state tournament

Goldsmith and Scarborough were the scoring stars of the contest with three runs apiece Buckley and Fad

VETERANS SWAMPED IN SHORT CONTEST

YOUTH must be served And How!

The absolute proof of this old one aside was shown to some 500 Marion baseball fans when the local Eagle nine ran wild in the first two and a half innings of their game with the Old Timers yesterday that was called on account of rain the score standing at 9 to 1 It's hard to tell what the final score would have been had Old Lap Plusins not stuck in a few beers in full of rain

The Eagles batted clear around in the first inning scoring five runs on three hits including a terrific home run by Shoup over the fence in left center Four more came in the second when the Eagles socked Marshall of Iliffin who started on the mound for the Old Timers for five hits two of which were for extra bases Jackman looking a little better than of old went on the mound for Billy Fetter's nine in the third and threw just on ball a series to Rizor when the deluge started

Herring Scores

The Old Timers scored their only run in the first half of the third when Fish Herring slid under Bill Toomire to score on Paddy Weiler's infield out Herring had previously opened the inning with a single and went to third on Hattmerer's line double to left center The Old Timers went out in order in the first but Glen Preston pitched Lefty Good for the first batter in the second

But Lawson was the only Old Timer to give in before the punishing rays of Old Sol Bud started at short stop but with Rizor up in the first inning gave up the ship and Weiler took third with Fetter going to short

Baldauf Ahead

In a preliminary game between two All Star soft ball teams Walt Baldauf's nine with Gruber on the mound proved a little too much for Roy Rice's outfit The final score was 8 to 0 with Rice carrying the burden of defeat The game was featured by a terrific home run by Neimeyer Baldauf on center fielder who rode out of Rice's first ball for the circuit in the fifth inning

Marshall Mr Baldauf's short stop from Lee Street with two strikes on him also connected with Rice's second ball in the seventh for a rather synthetic home run

If you can't beat the game in the end when they scored four runs on two hits one of which was an infield scratch by Crum

League runs ago today—Goslin Washington 41

Yesterday Chicago took Philadelphia for the second ride in as many days but all New York could do also was to be taken for a ride on Boston It doesn't take the Indians on the front row to figure out nothing can be gained in that manner The Hank Brown affair was featured by pitcher Alvin Crowder sustaining a fracture of the left forearm when struck by Bill Dickey's sizzling liner Crowder will be out several weeks

Babe Ruth who has always had a liking for the St Louis park found his range to rap a few home runs during the Yanks' stay there all were due to the error of an overgrown spring pig in the right field bleachers

Giant fans received a most pleasant surprise when their idols whipped the Reds in both ends of a double header thus gaining a half game on Pittsburgh and Chicago who spent the afternoon winning one game Fred Fitzsimmons hurled one hitter in the first game allowing a lone single in the nine innings while the Reds only four safeties

Pittsburg had a picnic at the Robins expense While the Brooklyn infield was staging a keystone comedy the Pirates were rapping batball for 14 hits and some 17 runs

Roger Hornsby who seems to have a batting goal set up his prospectful clouting yesterday when he smashed out a double triple and home run

YANKEES FAIL TO GAIN AS ATHLETICS DROP 2 TO CHICAGO

New Yorkers Stand Pat by Losing to St Louis; Reds Lose Two

MAC IS GOOFY OVER THAT NEW STENOG THAT'S TAKING YOUR PLACE IN THE OFFICE, TILLIE
WHAT'S HER NAME NIFTY?
I DON'T KNOW - THAT'S HOW MUCH I CARE ABOUT HER
IS SHE GOOD LOOKING?
MAC THINKS SO, BUT I COULDN'T SEE HER WITH A TELESCOPE
MAYBE YOU'RE TOO CRITICAL NIFTY
WHY, THE FIRST DAY SHE WAS THERE I DUSTED OFF HER DESK AND WENT ON A COUPLE OF ERRANDS FOR HER - I EVEN LOANED HER $2 AND SHE DIDN'T SAY THANKS ONCE I'M THROUGH WITH HER -
JUST BIG-HEARTED THAT'S YOU, NIFTY

NEW YORK, July 9—In spite of the sharp up of the money market to a rise of the call loan rate to 9 per cent, leading railroad and industrial stocks forged ahead in heavy turnover on the big side. Equipment stocks were to respond a little more aggressively to the big increase in railroad of cars and engines and also made a brave effort to show strength of the larger proportions of the principal

During the morning session was marked with profit taking in the which had blazed a new trail into new territory last week, but there was a "release to the market" which seemed to take up most of the stock thrown out. The market was quiet until the early afternoon, when rail stocks were given a

Following up of the new transcontinental passenger service was a factor, but demand for the rails due to the steady increase in earnings of the principal systems rather than to spectacular new developments. That high grade rails were "due to buy" was evidenced by the fact that Pere Marquette, in the Nickel Plate group, raced along to 200 on sale of only 300 shares. The stock opened at 193 on 300 shares, then sold successively at 192, 193, 194, 195, 196, 198 and 200.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

The One-Man Home

IT is foolish to say that the modern man has no domestic yearnings in his heart—that he is a rover with a restless foot, and automobile complex and no desire for the sweet home life.

Every unattached man, no matter how "bachelorized," he may seem, has his secret dreams and visions of the "Some Day," when he shall settle down with the Ideal Woman in the Perfect Home. The little domestic monarchy, in which HE shall rule, of course.

The combination love-nest and hierarchy, where the perfectly marcelled and powdered wife, shall always be waiting for him, with the perpetual smile, in perpetual good-humor.

Where the grapefruit always remains cold and the soup always remains hot, and the roast never reaches the medium-done state, until he chooses to GET there.

Where somebody is always looking for his things, or his hat or his approval—and NOBODY is ever lying awake listening for his latchkey.

Where the housecleaning is done by magic, and an unseen fairy godmother transforms his linen from soiled wads upon the floor into a chiffonier full of snowy shirts and collars and neatly darned socks.

Where his morning moodiness is accepted as a matter of course, and his evening absence is regarded as a matter of "business."

Where his desk, his razor, his newspapers and his privacy are considered sacred: and where he may clean his fishing tackle or his gun in the living-room, track muddy boots or dripping golf-bags over the rugs and throw his wet raincoat over the damask couch, without fear of reproof.

Where the unexpected guest is always EXPECTED and is as welcome as the postman, or the morning newspaper.

Where the "gang" may drop in at ANY time from midday to midnight, and turn on the radio, make big whoopee and leave wet tumblers all over the grand piano.

Where it is a household tenet that cigaret ashes are good for the rugs and that smoke will keep moths out of the curtains.

Where a half-smoked cigar sinh graces every table and a forgotten newspaper adorns every chair.

Where Saturday is always a day off, and Sunday a day of rest and NOT of odd chores, boredom and family disputes.

Where his favorite arm-chair and all the newspapers are one-man monopolies and not regarded as community comforts.

Where his pockets are never rifled, his spirits are never ruffled, no questions are ever asked, and there are no arguments, no regular hours, and no by-laws! All the freedom of a bachelor flat, all the comforts of home and all the service of a good hotel! That is the bachelor's dream of "Home!" Let no man wake him up!

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Market prices were fairly quiet in Marion over the week-end, this morning's quotations show. But very few changes were recorded, while no new items were introduced.

The latest arrival in local markets is probably the Bermuda onion, a large sweet onion that sells for 10 cents each. Endive, which was first seen here a few weeks ago at 25 cents a pound, is quoted at a nickel less this morning.

New potatoes, which have been selling around 50 cents a peck, have gained another dime, now standing at 60 cents a peck for choice 1920 spuds. In bushel quantities they run around the $2.50 mark.

Head lettuce, although not choice, is selling between 15 and 20 cents today. In about two weeks the market here will be enhanced by the appearance of a new local crop of head lettuce, coming from the northern part of the state. Prices will be slightly lower, it is expected, and the lettuce will be fresh, crisp, and free from the usual bitterness.

Today's Review of Grain Market

CHICAGO, July 8—Acute crop conditions in the Spring wheat territory of the American Northwest on both sides of the boundary gave further impetus to the bull market in wheat the past week. There was a moderate reaction Saturday, but prices registered substantial net gains for the period with the December selling at a new high for the crop. Trade was broad and active at all times.

Coarse grains, which had been drifting in a dull trade, suddenly came to life Friday. Trade broadened and prices following the advance in wheat. Rye was the strongest grain on the list, values gaining ⅞@1⅜c on wheat.

Closing prices Saturday showed the following net gains as compared with the close of the previous week: Wheat, 5¾@6½c; corn, 1¾@2⅝c; oats, 2⅝@2¾c, and rye, 6⅝@8½c. Winnipeg wheat future prices advanced 9@11⅝c for the week.

Winnipeg Leads Rise

Calamitous conditions over most of the Spring wheat territory erased the bugbear of heavy stocks from the minds of the trade and instead of dire result from July liquidation, forecast just a few weeks ago, the market advanced sharply. Winnipeg led the upturn and Liverpool followed well on the bullish North American news and lack of moisture in Australia and Argentina.

From prospects of an average crop the Spring wheat condition has deteriorated to the point where disaster threatens, the reports indicated during the week. The acute situation in Canada was confirmed Saturday by the bullish crop report issued by the Canadian pool. From the domestic Northwest came sensational advices.

Trade broadened and was the most active and general since the upturn in January. Hedging pressure was in evidence on all the upturns, but offerings were well taken. In the face of the bullish crop news from the Northwest reports that yields in the Winnipeg territory were good and that a movement considerably heavier than a year ago was under way received little attention.

Prices Below Year Ago

In the first place prices are still more than 30c below a year ago, and present indications for the Northwest crop promise a reduction in yield which will more than offset the surplus carryover of 187,000,000 bu. this year in exterior countries. Further deterioration in the Northwest would convert into heavy buying orders into a market that has been the holding whom they have been the past few months.

Commission houses have been out of line in the recent upturn and increased the demand for cash field selection. While cables from and telegrams to Argentine points were pessimistic in regards to the harvest, offers were raised with the increased demand, prospects for crop damage were claimed to be an outlet for pressing Southwest stocks.

Corn Shorts Cover

Corn shorts covered as wheat prices reached a premium over the yellow cereal of 30c. Corn had been sold heavily against purchases of wheat because of the relatively narrow spread, but with this factor eliminated and with the crop backward trade broadened on the assumption that corn at the 30c difference would more readily reflect the trend in wheat.

what will be its stiffest test of the entire season when it tackles Asbury tonight on the Shovel diamond and the U. B.'s Wednesday night at Garfield Park. If the Lee Streeters can breeze through these two games the pennant will practically have to be conceded to them.

Of course the magnet that will draw most of the fans tonight is the Lee Street-Asbury clash but the Lutheran-Christian free at the Silk Mills will be worth going out to see. A defeat will place either team out of the pennant chase. The Lutherans defeated Christians in the first round 1 to 0. Asbury is trailing Lee Street by a single game and a win tonight will make the Asbury nine uneven money bet to cop the flag.

In a postponed game of the first church league, St. Mary's and Epworth Seniors battle for no reason at all.

Tuesday will see the four first division teams battling the four second division nines. However two good games should result when Calvary meets the Epworth Juniors and Epworth No. 1 meets the Epworth Heights. Christians should win over Wesley and the fast stepping Baptists should have little trouble in the Irish from St. Mary's.

A setback for John Clarke's team by the Golders will practically eliminate it as a championship contender while the Epworth Juniors will be fighting to escape an 8-to-2 first round walloping from Calvary and at the same time to stay within reach of the first division. However Calvary seems to be well on its way to another of its perennial championships and the Juniors should not hamper their progress a great deal.

Some Record

Rueben Gruber hasn't lost a game since Columbus won the Association pennant and has been striking out so many batters that Dazzy Vance went in the cellar and hid for shame.

Wednesday night sees Epworth Juniors against Christians at Fairfield in a clash that should draw a good many of the Scotch customers. Lee Street and United Brethren however will attract the crowd of the program with their clash at Garfield. Members of the U. B. nine have been heard to express in no uncertain terms that the league leaders are in for a second edition of the Boston tea party but the contents of our pocketbooks will go on Lee Street despite all these dire threats.

No "hot" games are on tap for Thursday although Hocking Valley may surprise the Fairfielders at Lincoln Park and the C. D. & M. nine may surprise the world in general by winning a game but the Erie Roundhouse should win by a city block.

Should Draw Crowd

The Kappas-Eagle battle Friday at Fairfield will probably draw the biggest crowd of the season as both teams are now in a triple tie with the Shovel A. A. for the lead and a defeat will mean the curtains for the losers.

Roscoe Rank will without a doubt hurl for the fraternity boys while if the management of the Birdmen haven't completely lost their heads they'll shoot Monsieur Francis Bacon, the boy wonder from the wilds of Mt. Gilead against Mr. Rank.

There's no doubt but that old man psychology plays a great deal in Bacon's long list of victories but nevertheless teams continue to fall before his fast ball and will continue to do so until the old soup bone is too stiff to get 'em up there. If he pitches the Eagles will get our backing. We might even risk a penny on the outcome.

The Shovels play the Howitzer boys and will win easily if they all don't fall dead from running around the bases. The Diggers should win by at least 20 runs.

TALKIES FATAL TO PROLOGUES, CLAIM

Sid Grauman Turns Over Keys to Fox and Enters Picture Production

HOLLYWOOD, July 8—The talking pictures having upset all traditions of the film industry, now have eclipsed the man who originated colorful prologues and lifted the "movies" from side street "storefront shows" to gorgeous "cathedrals of the cinema."

He is Sid Grauman, a shock-headed man of youthful appearance but with 20 years of theatrical experience back of him. This week
